Old Girls' High Site Chosen for City Hall

Radicals Riot in Many Cities AS FIGHT ENDS

COUNCIL PASSES MEASURE, MAYOR APPROVES ACTION

Vote of 13 to 7 Settles Question of Location Pending for Past Several Months.

VIADUCT PLANS GIVEN APPROVAL

Alabama Street Approach Eliminated From Drawings on Protest of Atlanta and Lowry Bank.

Atlanta's new $1,000,000 city hall will be erected on the old Girls' High school site at Washington and Mitchell streets, according to a decision Monday afternoon of city council. The proposal to build the new municipal structure at that location passed by a vote of 13 to 7 in council proper and was unanimously approved by the aldermanic board.

Mayor Pro Tem W. Guy Dobbs, acting mayor of Atlanta during the enforced absence of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale from his desk, approved the measure Monday night following a conference with Mr. Ragsdale. The mayor, who was at Blackman's sanitarium, where he is ordered by his doctors for a complete rest, expressed gratification at the action of council in selecting the site, although he termed it his second choice, stating that the location adjacent to the Fulton county courthouse was his preference.

Civic and labor leaders and members of general council Monday night praised the action of city council. Mr. Dobbs stated "it is the biggest single day's work done by council in many years, and is for the best interests of the city."

In addition to agreeing on the location for erection of the new municipal building, council also approved tentative plans for construction of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, and gave unanimous approval to a report of a special investigating committee probing charges of malfeasance against William A. Hansell, chief of construction, and Bruce J. Baxter, superintendent of the municipal garage. That portion of the viaduct drawings which call for construction of the Alabama street approach was eliminated to permit the Connally Realty company and the Atlanta and Lowry National bank to negotiate with the city in reference to where the approach should begin. The drawings called for an approach beginning at Whitehall street and running on a level eastward to the top of the Pryor street bridge. This was objected to by the bank and the Connally interests on the grounds that it meant virtual confiscation of all basement property of the two buildings in question. Mr. Dobbs also approved the viaduct plans.

Civic Center Plans.
Mr. Hansell and Mr. Baxter were charged with misfeasance by J. J. Barnes, former inspector of weights and measures.

Decision of council to erect the city hall on the old girls' high school site will enable the city in conjunction with Fulton county and the state of Georgia to develop a civic center in the intervening area between the courthouse and the capitol.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan at first served notice that he would move for reconsideration of the vote to accept the site.

SALES OF TOBACCO TOTAL $7,204,865

34,650,723 Pounds Sell on Georgia Markets at An Average Price of 20.79 Cents.

A total of 34,650,723 pounds of tobacco sold on the Georgia markets the first three weeks, ending last Friday, for a total of $7,204,865.14, an average price of 20.79 cents per pound, according to the official report issued Monday by the Georgia crop reporting service, compiled by Marcus P. McWhorter, statistician for the Georgia department of agriculture.

According to the report, last week was the biggest sales week yet experienced by the tobacco growers, there being 15,380,350 pounds sold for $3,385,486.36, an average of 22.01 cents per pound. The sales the third week only lacked about three million pounds equalling the sales of the first two weeks, the total for the first two weeks being 18,943,113 pounds which sold for $3,755,522.35, an average of 19.83 cents.

The 1927 income has already passed the income for the total crop of 1925, when $7,110,000 were received for 50,000,000 pounds sold during the entire season. The three weeks' sales this year, compare most favorably with the sales of last year when 40,000,000 pounds brought a total of $8,500,000. With the 127 season only half over, the sales for three weeks are only a little more than five million pounds short of the total poundage last year and lack only $2,300,000 equalling the total income for last year's crop.

That the 1927 crop will be the biggest tobacco crop ever grown in the state is foreseen with the figures disclosed for the first three sales weeks.

39 CENTS HIGH PRICE AT FITZGERALD.
Fitzgerald, Ga., August 22.—(P)—A total of 94,946 pounds of tobacco were sold on the local market today at an average price of $24.94 per hundred. Rickert & Brown received the $10 premium for 234 pounds at 39 cents a pound.

4,000,000 POUNDS SOLD ON MONDAY.
Macon, Ga., August 22.—(P)—Georgia tobacco growers are anticipating a record week of sales this week, according to the growers. The markets today all had an active day with Douglas topping the state sales with aggregating 750,000 pounds which sold.

COLONEL HOWELL, HERO OF ATLANTA, IS CRITICALLY ILL

Colonel Albert Howell, Sr., a pioneer resident of Atlanta, hero of the famous battle of Atlanta in July, 1864, lies critically ill at his home on Gordon street in West End. Colonel Howell has been in ill health for several years and his condition has been growing worse steadily for the past few days.

But while his game produced some thrilling wanderings from the straight and narrow pathway it also saw him in the role of a great recovery player. He was able to hold his score down to a comparatively respectable mark. But Bobby had to work and work hard to keep that figure as low as he could. Never forget that.

The golf Bobby shot today, according to the Bobby Jones standards, was best expressed by his one word as he turned from the 18th tee—"rotten."

And ere that word had passed his lips he had called for Pat Donohue, his red-headed caddy, to take his clubs to the practice tee. While his work today was far below the high Jones standard the master was fully aware of it and it was just as determined that tomorrow would see him do better.

After starting off in good fashion by grabbing a par at the first hole, Bobby had his first glimpse of what was in store for him when at the par four second, a 444 yard affair, he was short with his second and required a five to get down. His tee effort from the short third was a most weird attempt, but his pitch got him close to the hole.

Levine Rejects Mabel's Offer To Buy Plane

Sells Her One, However, Guaranteed to Cross Ocean.

Paris, August 22.—Mabel Boll, former Syracuse cigar counter girl but now more comfortably fixed, is not going to fly across the Atlantic. She decided today after Charles A. Levine turned down her offer of $50,000 to fly in the monoplane, Columbia, after she had taken a trial spin with Lieutenant Drouhin at Le Bourget field this afternoon in the Bellanca plane.

"Be a good sport and let me fly. Gee, this is a wonderful machine," the American girl with diamonds bristling all over, demanded of Levine.

The American millionaire reminded her that he was not interested in money. On second thought, however, he thought of his own company and offered to build her a plane for $15,000 guaranteed to cross the ocean in decent weather.

So the American millionaire accepted the offer and put an end to the rumors that she and Lieutenant Drouhin would fly off together some morning, leaving Levine to return the safe way.

They all adjourned later in the afternoon to Mabel's chateau at Chantilly, where champagne and cocktails were served by lackeys in neat livery. Warmly by the contents of Mabel's fine cellars, Levine and Lieutenant Drouhin grew very chummy. They swore they would fly together and together and regretted that they could not take Mabel along.

Storms still are reported off France, but the weather bureau told the five contestants that they might get off Wednesday morning.

OFFICIALS FORESEE FEDERAL CONTROL OF OCEAN FLIGHTS

New Zero Hour in Search for Seven Silent Fliers Is Now Set at Thursday.

San Francisco, Calif., August 22.—(P)—While navy boats and planes searched under an extended "zero hour," Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, a San Francisco visitor, and officials in Washington agreed today that some federal move must be made to prevent a recurrence of the disasters that have befallen the Dole air race entrants, crews of the Golden Eagle, Miss Doran and the Dallas Spirit.

Admiral Eberle, acting secretary of the federal government, predicted enactment by congress of a law to prohibit long-distance airplane "stunt flights" except under rigid conditions.

Zero Hour Is Set.
At the same time Admiral Eberle ordered the 40 naval vessels searching the Pacific for the missing fliers to continue their efforts until Thursday. The original plans were that the hunt should officially terminate tomorrow night, a week from the date of the start of the Miss Doran and the Golden Eagle in the Dole race.

Extension was given as the result of the disappearance of the Dallas Spirit, piloted by Captain William Ervin, of Dallas, Texas, and navigated by A. H. Eichwald, of Hayward, Calif., which apparently dove into the sea nearly 700 miles west of San Francisco Friday night after flashing SOS call on its radio.

Secretary Wilbur was quoted as agreeing that "some step must be taken by the federal government to prevent further loss of lives in long-distance stunt flights."

He declined to comment on Admiral Eberle's prediction.

The secretary said that the president had some power in this respect, but said he was not sure that this was sufficient to cover the situation.

Some Action Necessary.
He declared it was inevitable that some action will be taken "to prevent needless loss of life."

"That navy men conducting the hunt for the missing men in the Dallas Spirit held little hope for their rescue was reflected by Lieutenant Commander W. C. Tooz of the destroyer Hazelwood, who said:

"I think there is one chance in a thousand that the Dallas Spirit will ever be found. The Hazelwood, in command of Commander E. H. Conner, covering an area of 3,200 miles about a point where she gave us her last position and in that space

Two Radicals Stoical As Death Approaches

"WE MUST BOW TO INEVITABLE"—VANZETTI

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE.
State Prison, Charlestown, Mass., August 22.—(United News).—"We must bow to the inevitable," Bartolomeo Vanzetti said when informed by Warden William Hendry that he must die soon after midnight tonight together with Nicola Sacco and Celestino Madeiros.

The warden called on the condemned men with Father Murphy, prison chaplain.

The three men took the news stoically. All again refused spiritual aid.

Writes to Father.
Sacco, who was writing a letter to his father in Italy, expressed a desire that the warden see the letter forwarded. Warden Hendry assured him that he would attend to it. An hour before the time set for their death, the three men calmly awaited their fate.

Sacco's face was grave as he penned the letter to his father. He seemed collected and unafraid.

Vanzetti sat there, seemingly uninterested in anything. He had little to say in what appeared to be his last hour of life. Once he expressed a wish to be buried in Italy. It was assumed his sister would claim his body and the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee would pay for sending it to Italy.

The constant popping of flashlights at the prison gate reflected the steel of poised bayonets.

Musmanno Arrives.
Michael Angelo Musmanno, of defense counsel, arrived in a taxicab shortly after 11 p. m. and asked permission to see the condemned men. He wanted to say good-bye, he explained.

"I don't think it would be wise to go in now," Warden Hendry replied. Musmanno continued his pleading. Musmanno was asked what he wanted to tell the condemned men. "I just wanted," he said, "to tell them that there is more mercy in their hearts than in the hearts of many who profess to orthodox religious."

"I wanted to tell them that I know of their innocence and that all the electric chairs and gallows in the world cannot change that knowledge."

"I wanted to tell them that they are two of the kindest and tenderest men that I have ever met. That

U. S. DELEGATES IN GENEVA STONED

SACCO IS DEFIANT AS HE FACES END

BY UNITED NEWS.
At the hour of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti radicals in six European countries, ablaze with rage against the fate that had put them to death, carried out demonstrations that in all cases led to clashes with the police, and in some involved serious fighting.

In London mobs tried to reach Buckingham and St. James palaces, the momentarily tenantless homes of the king and Prince of Wales.

American delegates to a League of Nations conference at Geneva, Switzerland, were stoned by a mob.

There were similar disturbances at St. Nazaire, France; Halle, Germany; Gothenburg, Sweden, and Copenhagen, Denmark.

From cities all over the world, including Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Sydney, Australia, there were reports of strikes or impending strikes.

American embassies and consulates in almost every big town in the civilized world were guarded by police.

RESERVES CALLED IN NEW YORK CITY.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, August 23.—With heads bared 2,000 followers of the red flag of anarchy stood in Union Square park early this morning and heard the official announcement that Sacco and Vanzetti were dead.

There was quiet for a moment, and then the impact of hatred for law and order broke out. The 100 police and detectives mingling with the crowd could not disperse the shouting, frenzied radicals.

A call was sent for reserves, and more than 300 police responded in motorcycles, automobiles, and on horseback. They rode through the milling throng and drove them through the streets, wielding with might their heavy night-sticks. Yet none was seriously injured and within half an hour this particular uprising was over.

The crowd was marching down 14th, 15th and 16th streets toward Third avenue when word was spread from one group to another to disperse quietly and meet at a radical rendezvous later in the day.

New York, however, was prepared to meet the wild sort of rioting. Two battalions of infantry and machine gun companies were held in readiness all night on Governor's island, awaiting a call from police for assistance. Special wires were strung from police headquarters to the island and these were held open.

Meanwhile, the financial district and government buildings were under heavy guard. Three police marched on each side of every block in the financial district and heavily armed private guards stood outside the larger banking institutions.

AMERICAN PRESS TOURISTS STONED.
BY HENRY WOOD.
Geneva, August 22.—(United News).—American delegates to the international press conference were stoned here tonight by Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrators who also stormed an American garage and halted and wrecked American automobiles in the streets.

The American press delegates were in a crowd in front of the Kursaal cafe, where they usually spend the evening.

The demonstrators, crying "where are the Americans?" stoned the delegates and smashed windows and dishes.

James Goodman, Arrested in Indiana, Believed Man Indicted for Murder Complicity.

Evansville, Ind., August 22.—(P)—James Goodman, 34, of LaGrange, Ga., arrested today as a suspect in a safe robbery, admitted to Chief of Detectives Ed Sutheimer tonight that he is wanted in Atlanta, Ga., on an indictment charging the murder of Bert Donaldson, investigator for Solicitor General John A. Boykin, of the Atlanta judicial circuit.

Donaldson was murdered in an Atlanta hotel in July, 1926, after he is believed to have worked up a case against a group of alleged swindlers operating in Atlanta.

An indictment has been returned in the Fulton grand jury against Jack Goodman, charging him with complicity in the murder of Bert Donaldson.

Ed Stephens, assistant solicitor of the Fulton superior court, stated Monday night that if the Goodman in Evansville, Ind., proves to be the man known here as Jack Goodman, an attaché of the solicitor's office will be sent immediately to bring him back to Atlanta for trial.

WALKER SLEEPS LATE AS LONDON SHERIFF AWAITS

(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
London, August 22.—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York city, arrived in London on time this morning for Ireland, but it was not his fault. The train did it, and Mayor Walker tried to make up for the break in form by sleeping a couple of hours longer in the berth while the sheriff's carriage, only a little less gorgeous than the lord mayor's own gold coach, which the lord mayor sent for him, waited in Fuston station. Then he drove to his hotel and went to bed again.

COOLIDGE NOT TOLD OF ELECTROCUTION OF TWO RADICALS

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., August 22.—(P)—President Coolidge retired early tonight after a strenuous trip about Yellowstone National park and he was not informed of the electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti, which occurred shortly after 9 o'clock, mountain standard time, which prevails here.

If any attempt was made to have him intervene in the case, it did not get to him. No visitors were received by him after his arrival in the park shortly after lunch. However, Mr. Coolidge is known to have regarded this case as one entirely outside his jurisdiction and a problem belonging strictly to the state of Massachusetts. He believed himself therefore powerless to intervene even if he desired.

After 7 Years of Fight Sacco and Vanzetti Die

Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, respectively an obscure shoe factory worker and a fish peddler, became important figures on the world stage when radical organizations in almost every civilized country began to stage demonstrations in their behalf, maintaining that they had been convicted of murder not because the evidence showed they were guilty, but because of their affiliation with a red organization.

On April 15, 1920, Frederick Parmenter and Alessandro Berardelli were shot and killed in a holdup at Braintree, Mass. Parmenter was paymaster for a shoe company and Berardelli was his guard. After killing them, the murderers escaped with $15,775.

Although the murder occurred in broad daylight in the main street of Braintree, which is 30 miles south of Boston, and with numerous witnesses looking on, the case developed into a first-class mystery. In the beginning the investigators had the following facts to work on:

Two men, hanging against a fence, halted the paymaster and the guard, seized the boxes in which they carried the money, and began to fire.

Parmenter fell dead and Parmenter was mortally wounded. Then an automobile drew up and the killers leaped in and sped away. One of the robbers dropped a "pepper and salt" can at the scene of the shooting. A little later the automobile in which the killers escaped was found abandoned. The bullets found in the bodies of the paymaster and the guard were extracted and held as evidence.

Arrested May 5.
On May 5, 1920, Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested. On September 14 they were indicted, but their trial did not begin until May 21, 1921.

The trial was conducted by Judge Webster Thayer at Dedham, a Boston suburb. Both defendants were radical agitators and Vanzetti had been a contributor to a radical paper in New York. As a result of the publicity that had been given the case, only seven jurors could be obtained from 500 veniremen called.

Instead of calling a new venire the judge exercised a statutory power and ordered the sheriff to select 200 men from the county at large. This was done and the jury was completed the following morning. The defense declared that these men were "hand-picked" and prejudiced against radicals and aliens.

Sacco's employer testified that the "pepper and salt" can resembled one he had seen the defendant wearing as he worked at a bench in the shoe factory. It was placed on Sacco's head and seemed to fit, although he asserted it was too tight.

Identified.
Five of the state's witnesses testified that Sacco was one of the men in the handi-car. Two identified Vanzetti. The defense offered alibis. The jury found them guilty of murder in the first degree. Judge Thayer later denied a motion for a new trial, asserting that although the evidence was mainly circumstantial, the two had been convicted through their own "consciousness of guilt."

Defense counsel brought out the radical leanings of the two men on trial, they asserted, merely to show that the pair had lied to the police after their arrest because they had an abject fear of the consequences of their radicalism. Judge Thayer had warned the attorneys for the men of the danger of bringing in the red issue.

Following the conviction, radical organizations raised a $300,000 defense fund. Propaganda was issued on a world-wide scale. Demonstrations were held in front of the American legations in all the South American and European nations. Bombings in Paris, Lisbon, Marseilles and Sofia in 1921 and 1922 were attributed to this influence.

In May, 1923, several Portuguese were killed during a Sacco-Vanzetti riot in Lisbon. In May and June, 1926, bombs were thrown at the American embassies at Buenos Aires and Montevideo. The interest in the case was held almost at fever heat for four years through the active propagandizing.

New Trial Denied.
Meanwhile Judge Thayer had denied several motions for a new trial. One was based on a claim that experts who had identified one of the bullets in Parmenter's body as coming from Vanzetti's pistol had erred. Another had as its principal feature an attack on Foreman Ripley, of the convicting jury, who had since died. Ripley was quoted as saying:

"Two guineas,—damn them. They ought to hang anyway."

The most sensational development in the defense case in November, 1923, when Celestino F. Madeiros, who had already been convicted of a murder, made a confession stating that he had killed Parmenter and his guard and that Sacco and Vanzetti had nothing to do with the robbery and killing. He said he did this because he was sorry for the wife and children of the innocent Sacco.

But Madeiros lied in some of his testimony and the state threw in other evidence against his credibility. On October 23, 1926, Judge Thayer held that the evidence was not worthy of calling for a new trial.

On April 4, 1927, the Massachusetts supreme court overruled exceptions to Judge Thayer's rulings. On April 9, Judge Thayer sentenced the two men to die in the electric chair in July. An executive respite gave Sacco and Vanzetti another 30-day reprieve. Governor Alvan F. Fuller had decided to review the case.

Fuller Begins Study.
To assist him the governor called in the heads of Harvard university and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Robert Ames Jones, a former Boston judge. Evidence taken in camera and the committee's report was given the governor.

On August 3, Governor Fuller announced that he could find nothing in the record to justify intervention on his part. The execution was set for August 10.

A few hours before the moment of execution, Governor Fuller gave a further stay to permit the Sacco-Vanzetti attorneys to appeal to the state supreme court. Justice Holmes, Stone and Taft declined to interfere.

The two radicals finally expiated their crime August 23.

SACCO AND VANZETTI PAY DEATH PENALTY

As the straps were being adjusted he said calmly:

"Good evening, gentlemen."

His last words were, "Farewell, mother."

Vanzetti Is Cool.

Vanzetti, the elder of the two anarchists, was cool and collected. He marched in with unflinching steps, an expression that seemed like reproach in his mild, brown eyes.

He shook hands with the guards he knew, sat down in the chair, and on the brink of eternity, spoke as follows:

"I wish to tell you I am innocent and never committed any crime, but sometimes some sin."

"I thank you for everything you have done."

"I am innocent of all crime, not only of this one, but all."

As Vanzetti was about to be blindfolded he added:

"I wish to forgive some people for what they are now doing for me."

Dignified in Death.

The culmination of the case that has stirred the world came with a dignity, if such a thing can be associated with the process of death in an electric chair, that seemed fitting.

The men were not demonstrative. They wore blue striped denim shirts, no coats, gray trousers and black slippers.

Each man was brought in between two guards.

The little room with its dozen odd grave, solemn men present as witnesses, was very quiet.

When each had been adjusted in the chair, the warden signaled with his hand. Robert C. Elliott, the official executioner, then pulled a switch behind a screen, that was all.

Well-Arranged Drama.

Everything went like a well-arranged drama. As each man was lifted from the chair after the execution, he was examined by four physicians, two as officials and two as guests. The bodies then were prepared for removal to the city morgue, where an autopsy will be performed by the medical examiner. Then they can be claimed by relatives.

Dr. George B. McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county, will perform the autopsies at the morgue. A heavy police guard surrounded the ambulance carrying the bodies to the northern mortuary on North Grove street.

Warden Hendry told the United Press after the execution that Vanzetti turned to him as he was being led to the chair and said in a low tone:

"Goodbye, warden. You have been very good to me and very kind. Goodbye."

Begin After Midnight.

The triple execution began just as the prison clock neared three minutes after midnight, the exact time scheduled. In 24 minutes, all three men were dead.

Just an hour after their reprieve had expired at midnight, an ambulance drew up to the prison yard to receive the bodies of Sacco, Vanzetti and Madeiros. The life of the big, dark prison alone had begun its return swing to normal. The many prisoners in their cells knew of the execution and most of them were awake, but there was no noise.

At 1:10 a. m. the bodies were brought out on stretchers through the darkened prison yard and placed in the ambulance, which started for the mortuary, preceded, followed and flanked by motorcycle police.

The first to leave the prison was Michael Angelo Musmanno, devoted counsel of Sacco and Vanzetti, who had fought with all the means at his command in their behalf and seemed a broken man as he turned sadly away.

Others of the official party left soon afterwards. Those who witnessed the execution included Warden Hendry, Deputy Warden James L. Hogsett, Dr. McGrath, Dr. Joseph L. McLaughlin, prison physician; Frank P. Williams, surgeon-general of the Massachusetts national guard; Sheriff Samuel H. Capen, of Norfolk

GOVERNOR REFUSES PLEAS FOR RADICALS.
BY CECIL OWEN.

Boston, August 22.—(United News.)—The last hope that their lives might be spared vanished tonight for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Following an extraordinary conference that lasted all night, Governor Alvan F. Fuller denied a petition for a third reprieve for the doomed men.

The governor, who, as a result of a recent personal investigation of the world-famous case, decided that Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty and should die, remained firm even in the face of the dramatic plea of the men, those nearest to the condemned men.

Mrs. Rose Sacco, black-clad and tearful, the mother of Sacco's two children, had pleaded for mercy to the executive personally for a final plea that her husband's life might be spared.

With her went the brave Luigi Vanzetti, who had raced 4,000 miles from Italy to be with her famous brother at the end of his amazing fight against Sacco and Vanzetti. For more than two hours these two women, supported by other Sacco-Vanzetti followers, tearfully begged the governor to intervene.

Behind closed doors at the heavily-guarded statehouse they pleaded as never before in the faint hope of staying even at this late hour the stay of execution. They pleaded for justice that had been successfully fought off for seven long years.

No word came from these solitary figures. They left the conference chamber, but their faces told the story—told as plainly as words that Sacco and Vanzetti, the humble workers who set the world aflame, must die at last for their crime.

Then a new face would appear at the closed door of the executive chamber—a face lit by the faintest glimmer of hope. It would be the constant stream of state officials and Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers passed in and out of the chamber as the momentous decision was made.

Michael Angelo Musmanno, the young Pittsburgh lawyer into whose hands had fallen the responsibility of the execution, stood in the hall, waiting for the decision. He was there throughout the meeting.

So was Aldo Feliciani, the Italian without whose aid Sacco and Vanzetti might have been paid with the money for their defense. He was there throughout the meeting.

It was Feliciani who started the Sacco-Vanzetti movement, which later was to arouse interest in the case. He was there throughout the meeting.

Gardner Jackson, of the defense committee, was there. He was there throughout the meeting.

Herbert Ehrmann, former associate of Thompson; Governor Fuller, his secretary, Herman A. MacDonald; MacDonnell, who was there throughout the meeting.

Arthur K. Reading, who was there throughout the meeting.

Phas of Wife, Sister.

While almost everyone attending the conference spoke at least briefly regarding the case. The principal pleas came from Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti.

Attorney Musmanno acted as interpreter.

Mrs. Sacco begged the executive to look upon the case as a father might look upon it, declaring that, like her husband, the governor had children.

Referring to the testimony of Lola Anderson, sister of Sacco, she said that she saw Vanzetti driving the death car. Mrs. Sacco asked Governor Fuller if it were right that testimony of a husband should be taken into account. She said her husband could not drive an automobile.

Leaves State House.

After the meeting with the governor, Mrs. Sacco left the state house with Gardner Jackson, of the defense committee, and Miss Vanzetti with Miss Edith B. Jackson, sister of Sacco.

Both women were weeping as they walked from the building. Just outside, near the Hooker statue, they were met by other members of the defense committee and were whisked away in an automobile.

Last to leave was Attorney Musmanno. At 11 p. m. he sent a note to the governor.

GOVERNOR REFUSES PLEAS FOR RADICALS.
BY CECIL OWEN.

Boston, August 22.—(United News.)—The last hope that their lives might be spared vanished tonight for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Following an extraordinary conference that lasted all night, Governor Alvan F. Fuller denied a petition for a third reprieve for the doomed men.

The governor, who, as a result of a recent personal investigation of the world-famous case, decided that Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty and should die, remained firm even in the face of the dramatic plea of the men, those nearest to the condemned men.

Mrs. Rose Sacco, black-clad and tearful, the mother of Sacco's two children, had pleaded for mercy to the executive personally for a final plea that her husband's life might be spared.

With her went the brave Luigi Vanzetti, who had raced 4,000 miles from Italy to be with her famous brother at the end of his amazing fight against Sacco and Vanzetti. For more than two hours these two women, supported by other Sacco-Vanzetti followers, tearfully begged the governor to intervene.

Behind closed doors at the heavily-guarded statehouse they pleaded as never before in the faint hope of staying even at this late hour the stay of execution. They pleaded for justice that had been successfully fought off for seven long years.

No word came from these solitary figures. They left the conference chamber, but their faces told the story—told as plainly as words that Sacco and Vanzetti, the humble workers who set the world aflame, must die at last for their crime.

Then a new face would appear at the closed door of the executive chamber—a face lit by the faintest glimmer of hope. It would be the constant stream of state officials and Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers passed in and out of the chamber as the momentous decision was made.

Michael Angelo Musmanno, the young Pittsburgh lawyer into whose hands had fallen the responsibility of the execution, stood in the hall, waiting for the decision. He was there throughout the meeting.

So was Aldo Feliciani, the Italian without whose aid Sacco and Vanzetti might have been paid with the money for their defense. He was there throughout the meeting.

It was Feliciani who started the Sacco-Vanzetti movement, which later was to arouse interest in the case. He was there throughout the meeting.

Gardner Jackson, of the defense committee, was there. He was there throughout the meeting.

Herbert Ehrmann, former associate of Thompson; Governor Fuller, his secretary, Herman A. MacDonald; MacDonnell, who was there throughout the meeting.

Arthur K. Reading, who was there throughout the meeting.

DISPERSED POINTS IN RADICAL CASE

Boston, August 22.—(P)—The identification of the bandits who drove up to the door of the Slater and Morrill shoe factory in South Braintree on April 15, 1920, shot down a paymaster and his guard and escaped with $15,775, was one of the most closely disputed points in the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti for the murder.

The state produced witnesses who identified both Sacco and Vanzetti as having been seen in the bandits' automobile. The defense introduced testimony that Sacco was in Boston and Vanzetti in Plymouth on the day of the murder.

Another matter which figures largely in the trial was the contention of the state that Sacco and Vanzetti had shown a "consciousness of guilt" by their attitude after their arrest and particularly by the lies which they admitted they had told the authorities about their movements.

It was this that led the defense to place Sacco and Vanzetti on the stand to tell of their radical activities.

Defense contended that the men had tried to conceal the truth about their movement because they feared deportation as radicals. It was brought out that they had been active in many radical movements and their testimony was that on the night of their arrest they were seeking to collect radical literature which they had previously distributed, for fear it would lead to their apprehension.

State and defense clashed on expert testimony as to pistol bullets. A state expert testified that the bullet which was taken from the body of the paymaster's guard was "consistent with having been fired" from a pistol which other witnesses testified belonged to Sacco. Defense experts insisted that the bullets could not have been fired from that weapon.

they love their brother man and that their sincerity is apparent."

Musmanno was then summoned into the north cell block and it was thought he was going to see the men, but he emerged in a few minutes and went into the warden's office to telephone the statehouse. The office was closed and reporters barred.

It developed that Musmanno was awaiting Governor Fuller's order to the statehouse to get his permission to visit the men.

"I have lost my hope, not only in this case, but in mankind entire," he said.

Musmanno was unable to get the governor on the telephone and gave up the attempt.

Musmanno remained alone in the warden's office. He broke down, laid his head on the warden's desk and wept.

In the shadow of the Bunker Hill monument, rising stark against the overcast sky a small army of foot, mounted, motorcycle and marine police, and foot and mounted state constabulary were mobilized about the old prison.

There was ultimately a total of 510 men on duty, the most in the history of the prison. Three hundred and sixty Boston police officers were on duty, armed with revolvers and night clubs. They came in large orange omnibuses, in a line every precinct in a radius of 15 miles. With them was a shotgun company of 60 men.

These carried a short-barreled riot rifle. A half score had slung Thomson machine guns in khaki cases. Ten mounted men rode up in olive drab. Their heavy horses marking them as they trotted along the streets.

Three shotgun men passed in a flivver, carrying a machine gun. A fire boat patrolled the estuary of the Miller river.

Slowly they had pushed back the small, listless crowd of sightseers. They had cleared a path for the men which had stood before the prison gate. The lines were finally drawn from one to three blocks from the prison.

5,000 RADICALS REPORTED IN RIOT.
Lomb, August 22.—(United News.)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Geneva says 5,000 enraged Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrators tonight stormed the American consulate.

When they failed, they attacked hotels, American shops, tourist agencies, and the League of Nations building, the dispatch declares.

At least one person was reported killed and 25 wounded. Casualties are expected to be much greater when full reports are received.

Most of the demonstrators, the correspondent says, were youths, who were shouting and waving flags.

But he adds that pistol bullets were used to break the windows of the league council room from the street, and that the demonstrators were being guarded against attempted outrage.

The demonstrators, the dispatch declares, stormed a police station and released five of their number who had been arrested when an earlier attempt to reach the American consulate was frustrated by police.

Moving pictures of American origin, it is stated, were seized from theaters, including some showing Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge. The films were taken into the streets and ceremoniously destroyed, the correspondent says.

An American garage, the correspondent declares, was seriously damaged, and an assistant injured.

Fire brigades were summoned to the streets to cope with possible incineration, the dispatch declares. A city councillor, who tried to calm the crowd, was struck in the head by a stone and was taken to hospital, it says.

Special guards are being maintained around most of the public buildings and prominent government officials.

Banking Act, Chain Store Tax, Oil Inspection Bill Among Important Measures Passed

Cotton Futures, Child Welfare, Taxation Reformation Fail to Gain Support or Lose in Jam.

Passage of laws throwing more safeguards around deposits in state banks and revising to a marked extent the laws covering the operation of the state banking department; levying a tax on chain stores; laws reorganizing the system of oil inspection; laws changing the system of fixing fees for automobile license tags, and laws giving the large cities of the state the right to pass zoning measures were outstanding achievements of the legislature which ended its sessions early Sunday morning.

Under provisions of the new banking act no more branch banks can be created by state of the state bank capital stock of $25,000 is fixed for such institutions and depositors are placed first on the list of preferred claimants when banks are liquidated. Directors of such banks must live within 25 miles of the bank. Branches of state banks existing at the time of the passage of the bill will be permitted to continue operation. Under the old law depositors were fifth in the list of claimants but the new law places them first, with no difference being made between straight depositors and time depositors. The act as passed contained about ten amendments and officials of the banking department Monday were unable to discuss the effect of these amendments until the bill is compiled and published.

The law taxing chain stores applies to all stores of this nature above five. Merchants can operate as many as five stores without being considered chain store operators. Each store above five must pay an annual tax of $250. A special clause in the bill exempts gasoline filling stations.

Among the measures which precipitated hot fights during the session but which were not passed by the legislature were the Stone Mountain commission bill, the lieutenant governor bill, the Thompson highway bill and the bill providing for the calling of a constitutional convention.

The Stone Mountain bill provided for the creation of a commission of five members, consisting of Hoke Smith, Mrs. Mary Harris Arner, the state game and fish commissioner, the state forester and the state superintendent of schools, to take over Stone Mountain and adjacent ground as a state park. This commission would have authority to negotiate with other agencies to raise funds for the completion of the Stone Mountain memorial.

Although the senate passed the bill creating the office of lieutenant governor the measure did not come up for passage in the house, meeting late in the session. The Thompson highway bill passed the senate but was defeated in the house. It provided for a specified state road system of 7,000 miles.

The legislature also declined to pass a measure providing for the creation of a commission of 11 members to study the governments of other states and to report back recommendations for changes in the present state system at the next session. Commissioners to study educational conditions and one to study crime conditions were created in bills which were defeated in the house.

Far reaching changes in the methods of fixing fees for automobile license tags are contained in a bill passed by the legislature. The fee will be based on the factory weight of the machine instead of on its horsepower as in the past.

Under the new bill light cars will pay approximately the same fees as in the past, but heavier cars will be required to pay increased fees. Ford and Chevrolet will pay $11.25 and $11.50 respectively under the new system. The minimum hereafter has been $11.25. Rates on other cars will be approximately as follows with slight variations as to models:

Buick, $19.50; Cadillac, $22.50; Dodge, $14.50; Essex, $13.00; Hudson, $18.50; Willys-Knight, $18.50; Hupp, $18.00; Lincoln, $25.50; Pierce, $22.50; Studebaker, $18, and Nash $18.50.

The new law raises the speed limit on highways outside of city limits from 35 to 40 miles an hour. It also fixes for the first time license fees for tractors. For tractors equipped with pneumatic tires the license fee will be $15 and those equipped with solid or metallic tires the fee will be $30. All licenses must be purchased by February 1 of every year instead of by March 1 as heretofore. Automobiles equipped with front and rear license tags.

Zoning laws were enacted in a constitutional amendment which must be submitted to the people for ratification. The amendment is ratified these laws will apply to cities of more than 25,000 population.

Another zoning bill applies to the counties of Fulton, Bibb, Muscogee and Glynn, and permits these counties to establish zoning laws. The zoning law as applied to Atlanta will legalize the old zoning laws formerly adopted by this city but which were declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Gas Inspection Savings.

Another important measure passed by the legislature was one which abolishes more than 200 jobs of oil inspectors, transfers the oil inspection from the department of agriculture to the state comptroller.

The new law becomes effective September 1. Each of the six oil inspectors will receive $200 a month and a similar amount for expenses each month, but must furnish his own automobile. The distillation test will be used instead of the specific gravity test used in the past. The present inspection is on a fee basis and it is expected that more than $100,000 a year will be saved by the state through the new system.

Only one of the five bills known as the "child welfare" bills was passed by the legislature. Two of them were on the calendar for the last night's session, but were never reached before final adjournment.

The measure which was passed is the adoption law which regulates the adoption of children in the state. The bills which failed to pass were the juvenile court bill which reorganizes the juvenile court system; the illegitimacy bill which requires support for illegitimate children; the measure which permits counties to use general funds to aid indigent mothers and the desertion and abandonment bill which makes desertion a continuing offense.

The Neill bill requiring that all state funds, no matter from what source collected, be turned into the state treasury and likewise that the state disbursements be paid out of the state treasury was passed. This measure will bring into the treasury all state funds which heretofore have been administered by state departments. A few exemptions were placed in the bill such as tuition fees to state institutions and fees for the state sanatorium at Milledgeville.

Efforts to pass new taxation bills failed almost completely as the chain store tax measure was the only one of any magnitude passed. The house adopted an income tax bill which was killed in the senate, both by an adverse report of a committee and also when an attempt was made to add to the general tax bill an amendment. The sales tax was defeated in the house, both as applying to public utilities and to the sale of merchandise. It was defeated by a vote in the house and twice in the senate. The senate also killed an attempt to levy a "list" tax of 2 percent on automobiles. A senate bill levying a "commutation tax" of $2 on every person eligible for military service was killed in the house.

The house passed a measure increasing the tax on gross premiums of insurance companies to 2 percent but the senate killed this measure. The house insisted and a conference committee finally agreed to let the tax stand at 1.5 percent as at present.

Estimated revenue of $800,000 a year was lost when the senate killed a tax on recorded instruments such as mortgages, deeds and bills of sale.

The Wilhoit gasoline tax bill was finally passed fixing the tax on gasoline at 4 cents a gallon. This tax takes the place of the 3-1/2 cent heretofore and the 1-1/2 cent tax charged in oil inspection fees.

Cotton Futures Dies.

The bill known as the "pharmacy bill" was passed by the legislature on the last day of the session. This measure was introduced by the State Pharmaceutical association and provides for the registration of pharmacists, the defining of drug stores and pharmacies and other features designed to protect the public from incompetent drug dealers and prescription clerks.

One of the important bills which was passed by the senate and which was on the house calendar the last day of the session backed by a formidable record and voted unanimously by the house committee on magisterial was the bill which authorized the sale of cotton under contract for future delivery. An amendment was attached to this bill which made operative only after a cotton delivery point similar to that at Dallas, Texas, had been established. It was not reached.

The law which requires the posting of a notice five days on the market house door by couples desiring to be married was amended by the legislature to apply only to couples under 21 years of age.

Governors heretofore will be authorized to borrow money up to $3,000,000 each year under terms of a bill passed. This bill will abolish the practice of selling deferred school warrants each year to raise money with which to pay school teachers.

Ordinaries of Georgia counties are authorized to serve as guardians for minor children in certain specified instances under terms of a bill which was passed.

Racial integrity is preserved in a measure which specifically sets forth the requirements for classification of white and colored people.

A measure to cut the measures advocated by the commissioner of agriculture were adopted by the legislature. One of these measures fixed his term of office to begin on January 1, instead of the fourth Saturday in June. This cuts off about six months of the term of the present commissioner.

The bill known as the "trust company bill" was passed by the legislature. It abolishes more than 200 jobs of trust companies under the supervision of the state banking department and provides that all laws relating to banks shall apply to the companies.

The vital statistics bill was passed at this session of the legislature following provisions of an enabling act submitted by the people as a constitutional amendment in the last general election.

Georgia's inheritance tax laws were changed in a measure passed by the legislature. This levies a tax of 2 percent on the estates of non-residents, whether such non-residents die within the state or outside the state.

Fulton county's delegation obtained passage of all the measures they introduced in a measure to reorganize the important bill by the Fulton delegation was the Atlanta omnibus charter bill. This measure provides for the consolidation of the county departments for operating the schools system. Under one plan a member of the school board is to be appointed from each of six zones. Each zone is to have a member of the board. The board is to be divided into three wards, under the second plan, 12 members are to be named, one from each ward, and under the third plan the board is to operate as a single body. The measure gives the board the right to veto the school budget but the board can override this veto by a two-thirds vote.

Other provisions of the charter bill increase the salary of the mayor; changes the system of administration of the city parks; increases the rate of water rates except to obtain funds for the needs of the water department and permits the city to operate municipal lands which heretofore have been administered by state departments. A few exemptions were placed in the bill such as tuition fees to state institutions and fees for the state sanatorium at Milledgeville.

A. HOLLOMON SEES SUCCESS FOR REDFERN

Brunswick, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Full confidence in the success of the proposed airplane flight by Paul Redfern from Brunswick to Brazil was expressed here today by James A. Hollomon, associate editor of the Atlanta Constitution, who visited the aviator and saw the plane on Glyn Isle, near here.

Mr. Hollomon came to Brunswick expecting to witness Redfern's hop-off Tuesday morning, but when it was announced that the flight had been postponed on account of bad weather the Atlanta editor returned home tonight.

"That's the prettiest airplane I've ever seen," Mr. Hollomon said as he looked at the graceful machine as it was rolled out of the hangar to the beach preparatory to an inspection by a representative of the Wright Motor company.

"It is evidently the last thing in monoplane building of that type," he continued, as he stood on the beach admiring the machine.

Mr. Hollomon added that while he appreciated the fact that Redfern was about to attempt the longest and most hazardous flight on record, he believed it would be successful. "He is a fine aviator, he has a great machine, and I hope and believe he will safely reach Brazil."

At 1 o'clock the visiting editor was the guest at a luncheon at the Oglethorpe hotel and later in the afternoon, in company with Judge E. C. Butts, he visited Colonel T. L. Huston at his home on Champey Island.

Mr. Hollomon expressed himself as being delighted that Colonel Huston had become interested in the coastal section of Georgia, and said he was astonished at the work already being accomplished along the Altamaha delta. Discussing Brunswick generally, he said that the city was showing every sign of progress and prosperity, saying there was activity on all sides and that he saw a wonderful future for the island resorts and the city.

Mr. Hollomon spent the entire afternoon inspecting the great plant of the Hercules Powder company here, which is the largest of its kind in the world, comprising 1,000 pounds. He was the guest of a citizens' committee.

Mr. Hollomon said he was amazed at the great Hercules industry here. It shows what scientific engineering and mechanical skill can do in making a complete cycle of the raw product. It is a great industry for south Georgia in utilizing a waste product at enormous returns to Georgia people.

LEGION IS URGED TO AID APPEAL OF SALVATIONISTS

Support of American legionnaires for the Salvation Army's "moving day" appeal for the used furniture and other material that will be discarded by families who change residences September 1, was urged by the executive committee of Atlanta post at its meeting Monday.

In adopting a motion for support of the effort, attention was called to the distinguished service of the Salvation Army during the world war and its cooperation with the legion since the war in providing for veterans in distress.

The "moving day" campaign was launched Monday to continue until September 1, when apartment leases expire and hundreds of families remove to new addresses, in an effort to obtain from the articles discarded in moving enough material to support the department during the coming fall and winter.

YANKEE COLONEL TO TAKE TROPHIES BACK TO GERMANS

New York, August 22.—(AP)—Ceasing to feel great pride in the possession of his 500 war relics, Lieutenant Colonel George Crouse Cook, of the army reserve, is planning a trip to Germany to return them to their "owners."

"If I kept them," he said, "it would seem to me as if I were saying continually, 'who won the war?' So I came to the conclusion that they should be restored to their owners as keepsakes. They don't belong to me."

Cook, who is 32 years old, plans to buy an automobile upon his arrival in Germany and visit the men who lost the trophies. He has the names and regiments of German soldiers who were benefactors of their epaulettes, medals, crosses and other insignia when captured.

W. M. U. MEET TODAY AT SECOND BAPTIST

The W. M. U. of the Atlanta association will hold an important meeting in the Second Baptist church from 10:30 to 12 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Wilbur Jones, superintendent of the association, desires all interested to be present at this service, at which time plans will be made for the ruby anniversary. The choir of the Second Baptist church will furnish music.

A special meeting will be held for the society presidents of the association and the district secretaries.

Dance Contest To Be Staged At Lakewood

Who are Atlanta's best dancers? This question will be solved Saturday night on the dance pavilion at Lakewood, the south's most famous amusement resort in one of the most novel contests staged in Atlanta in many years, according to announcement Monday night by the Lakeside Amusement corporation, lessees of this new hall at the play center.

Beginning promptly at 8 o'clock tonight, those well versed in the terpsichorean art will begin the first of a series of elimination contests. Another preliminary contest will be staged Thursday night, and another Saturday just prior to the grand finale.

Winners of each of the preliminary meets will be given suitable prizes and the winners of the grand prize, in addition to being proclaimed Atlanta's most graceful and poised couple, will receive handsome awards.

The amusement corporation has leased the newly-constructed dance hall overlooking the lake from the Southeastern Fair association, operator of the park, for the remainder of the season and has engaged the College of Atlanta to furnish music.

Three judges will make awards each night and will sit in judgment over the finals Saturday night. The contests are the first of a series of novelty stunts to be arranged at the dance hall.

Dancing begins each night at 8 o'clock and continues until 11 o'clock.

DETROIT PLANE WILL BRING TEN PASSENGERS HERE

A preliminary flight over the proposed Detroit-Jacksonville commercial airway will bring 10 passengers to Atlanta by airplane on September 13, it was learned Monday.

The visitors, scheduled to arrive at noon, will be greeted by city and chamber of commerce officials. After a two-hour stop-over the trip to Jacksonville will be continued.

The Dixie & Northern Air Line Co., of Detroit, contemplates a weekly service each way, to be inaugurated with a Stout tri-motor, all-metal plane. From Detroit to Jacksonville the fare will be $100, it was announced.

EX-GOVERNOR WALKER RETURNS FROM TRIP

Athens, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—Former Governor and Mrs. Clifford Walker returned today from a two months' visit to Canada and the eastern section of the United States. Mr. Walker en route by automobile to his home in Monroe.

He said that he did not expect to enter actively into any business for another two months. Before becoming governor he practiced law.

3 MEN ARE HELD IN WOMAN'S MURDER

Tampa, Fla., August 22.—(AP)—Three men were in jail tonight and others were expected to join them as a result of police investigation of the murder of Mrs. Pearl Day, 35-year-old mother, whose body was found near here yesterday, with two bullet wounds in the back.

Walter Wells, Joe Fernandez and Jack Lake were arrested this afternoon after C. W. Day had identified the body as that of his wife but officers said they were confident that others were involved and predicted other arrests soon.

The body of the woman was found yesterday by two men driving through the woods to inspect an orange grove, but identification was not established until today when the husband viewed the body at the morgue and reading that the woman wore a ring engraved with the initials "C. D. to P. J. Sept. 14, 1909."

Day delivered his wife had gone to Orlando, Fla., with the wife of a friend of his, he told police, and had heard nothing from her since Friday, the day she left. Investigation disclosed that a man called for Mrs. Day at a hotel last Friday and that she left with him and possibly others, officers said. They declined to divulge the name of the man with whom she is said to have left the hotel, but said he was not yet in custody.

The Days had a son, 16, and a daughter, 10, the husband said.

JACKSONVILLE GIRL TO WED BARTHELMSS

Jacksonville, Fla., August 22.—(AP)—Miss Katherine Wilson, former Jacksonville girl, dramatic actress of New York city, where she starred in "An American Tragedy," is engaged to marry Richard Barthelmess, screen star. It was announced tonight by Miss Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Y. Wilson, prominent in Jacksonville society.

The marriage, according to the formal announcement, is to be sometime in November.

Miss Wilson played opposite Barthelmess three years ago in "New Toys."

Glowing Health Comes When Blood Is Right

Build Up Your Blood in Iron—Thousands Are Now Praising Mineral-Tone For Its Amazing Health-Giving Powers.

A prominent doctor in a great German University says: "The secret of life is the ability of living cells to effect change of matter and absorb and eject fluids. This change of fluids seems to be the principal cause of blood circulation."

Knowing as we do that the millions of tiny cells, which make up the tissues of the body, are dependent upon the blood for nourishment and health, how important then that we keep our blood properly supplied with iron and in a pure, clean and healthy state. Lines of illness give to glowing health when the blood is right.

Mineral-Tone, the newly discovered marvelous combination of health-giving minerals, 25 per cent of which is iron, will make your blood rich, red and pure and bring you renewed health, strength and energy. It is the talk of thousands who have used it and who have been blessed by its amazing health-giving powers.

$1.25 Brought Relief He Spent $300 To Find Says Macon Insurance Man

Mineral-Tone Worked Where Doctors of Four Cities Failed, Says Holland.

How all the prescriptions of doctors in four cities had failed to cure him, how he had spent three hundred dollars in a vain effort to rid himself of terrible eczema—and then how a single package had proved Mineral-Tone "the best blood purifier on earth" is told in a letter from R. W. Holland, well known insurance man of 318 Spring street, Macon, Georgia.

R. W. HOLLAND.

"I suffered from eczema for six years," says Mr. Holland, "and to my knowledge I have spent $300.00 and probably more trying to cure it. Have tried the prescriptions of doctors in four cities, and every medicine that anyone suggested. All failed. Mineral-Tone has done for me in one month what I have been trying years to do. I can never repay the Mineral-Tone people for their wonderful product."

"I had eczema so bad I could not sleep for nights at a time. It seemed sometimes that if I did not get relief I would go insane. But I am not bothered the least bit now. I consider Mineral-Tone the best blood-purifier on earth."

Supremacy of Morning Paper

The average person wants his morning newspaper the first thing every morning, and feels lost without it. He wants to know what has happened over the world while he has been asleep. He knows, if he is any sort of an analyst, that the morning paper has first call on 75 per cent of all the news that breaks over the world, and 90 per cent of the news that happens locally.

The morning paper publishes first all the news that comes from noon until after midnight, and it is still news when it reaches the reader.

Give The Constitution the proper change instructions, and you will not miss a single copy of your morning paper.

substitutes if you seek the famous Quaker flavor

THE point to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want.

One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfasts for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly.

ASHLEY EXPLOIT IS BRANDED 'FAKE'

Nashville, Tenn., August 22.—(AP)—Lawrence S. Ashley's disappearance into Nick-a-Jack cave near Shell Mound, Tenn., was a fraud perpetrated for the purpose of securing a state highway by the cave, State Mine Inspector O. P. Pile reported officially to Governor Austin Peay this afternoon.

Pile's statement charged that Ashley and other inhabitants of the section, including members of the "rescue crews" which returned with fabulous stories of wonderful halls in a six-mile long cavern, were in the plot, whose secondary purpose was to give the cave publicity and attract tourists.

Hits Cave as Unattractive. The cave is not over two miles in length, is shallow and in parts muddy and the roof has fallen in places, making it unattractive to tourists, his statement said.

Ashley, he charged, did not stay in the cave and did not reappear until Sunday. Pile took a crew of 50 miners into the cave to search out every nook and cranny and left one man stationed at the door to prevent Ashley from entering behind the party and secreting himself in any part of the cave.

This appeared to excite persons standing outside and the party had not gone far before it was called back to see Ashley appear from the woods above and hurry off toward his home without talking to those at the cave mouth.

Showered "No Signs of Mud." The "exhausted" explorer, who told newspapermen a tale of adventures cut off by a rock slide and after days of wandering and encountering a wildcat in the dark, digging his way out to daylight, showed no signs of mud on his clothes and boots, carried a heavy pack and walked rapidly. Pile asserted.

The only excitement at the sight was among newspapermen and miners who "ran until they were out of breath to catch up with him," according to a correspondent of a Nashville paper, who also charged that many of Ashley's friends who had been searching for him refused to accompany Pile's expeditions into the cave Sunday.

ASHLEY DECLARES CHARGE RIDICULOUS. Chattanooga, August 22.—"I don't care to make any reply to this ridiculous statement at this time," Ashley told a Chattanooga News reporter when called by long distance and informed of Pile's charges. "I won't enter into a newspaper controversy with him, but will take direct steps to answer him. I want to see what his report carries in the way of so-called proof before making any report to Shellmound and promise to guide him to the exit where he dug his way out. He admitted, however, that it would be a hard task as he emerged in the dead of night and did not know where he was on the side of Sand mountain.

RELATIVES FIGHT TO BLOCK RETURN OF LEPER EARLY. Asheville, N. C., August 22.—(AP)—New legal barriers were raised today to block the federal government's plan to remove John Early, the leper, from the farm of his brother, Matt Early, to the federal leprosy hospital in Louisiana.

Federal authorities here apparently were marking time this afternoon pending a decision from department justice officials as to what the next step shall be. Two federal public health service officers arrived in Asheville today and were in conference with Brownlow Jackson, United States district marshal.

Meanwhile an order was served on Marshall Jackson by a member of the sheriff's department ordering that Early be presented before Judge Walter E. Moore, of Sylva, in Rutherford county, August 23. This order, signed by Judge R. A. Nunn, at Black Mountain, N. C., is in effect in an effort to force the part of Early's relatives to have him examined and to show he is not afflicted with leprosy.

The marshal, a deputy and the health officers it was learned, and planned to go after Early Monday. These plans were being delayed, however, pending decision as to the proper legal procedure.

U. S. TO CONTROL OCEAN FLIGHTS

The destroyers Hazelwood, Hull, Kidd, and others were in San Francisco rearming their loaders and refueling, preparatory to proceeding back out to sea to rejoin the airplane carrier Langley, some 500 miles off shore. The Langley has been dispatched observation planes over a wide area for searching purposes.

No Hope Is Seen. Reports from Honolulu bore no more hope. The Associated Press correspondent at the island headquarters declared "another day passed without developments in the search for the Dole fliers."

Submarines and their mother ship, the Wilgoon, returned to Pearl harbor from a long cruise down the west side of the islands and back along the leeward side, arriving home with empty fuel tanks and loaders.

Captain Frank C. Martin, in charge of the submarines, reported to Rear Admiral John D. McDonald that they saw "nothing but blank ocean."

Admiral McDonald ordered Captain Martin to return to Pearl harbor, presumably in preparation for further searching.

Sampans (Japanese fishing boats) were all being checked upon their return to the islands in an effort to find at least one that might have sighted a bit of wreckage or some sign of the missing fliers. Jack Ford and Gordon Scott of the Golden Eagle; Miss Mildred Doran, John "Augus" Pedlar and Lieutenant Vilas R. Knapp of the biplane Miss Doran, while from mid-Pacific was awaited word from the vessels searching for the Dole Spirit crew, in hopes that possibly Captain Edwin and his navigator, Richard, might have escaped from the "tail spin" they told of by radio and were floating safely aboard their life raft.

IMMIGRATION OFFICIAL GOING TO NORFOLK, VA. Jennings Otto, local immigration inspector, will leave soon for Norfolk, Va., having been ordered to report to that bureau by Harry E. Hull, commissioner general at Washington.

Mr. Otto became affiliated with the government service at Miami, Fla., on November 22, 1918, and later served in the immigration offices at Charleston, S. C., and Key West, Fla. His assignment to Atlanta was made May 17, 1926.

Charlie Chaplin's Divorce Costs Comedian $1,100,000

LITA GRAY CHAPLIN.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Los Angeles, Calif., August 22.—Charlie Chaplin's separation and divorce from Lita cost him $1,100,000, according to Lloyd Wright, Chaplin's personal attorney in Los Angeles, who handled the property settlement negotiations.

Following is an itemized statement of Charlie's divorce payments: Today's settlement to Lita, including trust funds for children ($375,000 paid in cash today), $825,000.

Lita's separation expenses from date of separation until day of divorce trial, $10,000.

Receivers' fees and bond for handling the Chaplin personal and corporate properties under court order pending trial divorce case, $22,000.

Court costs $2,100. Interest paid at rate of 6 per cent $1,000 a month for five years until Chaplin can find his $200,000 trust fund for the children, $90,000.

Already paid by Charlie to Lita on temporary alimony $14,448. Interest on unpaid $250,000 awarded Lita, up to September 1, 1928, $9,000.

Interest on unpaid $150,000 owed Lita between September 1, 1928, and September 1, 1929, $6,000.

Interest on last alimony installment of $50,000 from September 1, 1928, until principal paid September 1, 1930, $2,000.

What Charlie paid to his own lawyers, for detectives, traveling expenses, publicity and entertainment staffs in New York, cost of documents, fees, and costs involved in preparing for trial, (estimated by Wright), $150,000.

Grand total—sums paid and to be paid by Charlie for his divorce, $1,100,548.

CASH AND TWO BABIES ARE GIVEN TO LITA. BY GEORGE H. BEALE.

Los Angeles, Cal., August 22.—(United News.)—The speedy romance of the Chaplins, which resulted in their marriage three years ago in Mexico, came to a speedy end today when Mrs. Lita Gray Chaplin was awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce from the screen comedian after a brief and formal hearing.

Shortly after trial of her divorce suit began an announcement was made that a property settlement agreeable to both parties had been accepted.

By its terms Lita will receive $625,000, and a trust fund of $200,000 has been provided for herself and children.

The children were placed in her custody, Chaplin being given the right to visit them at will.

Only a handful attended the brief session which several months ago had promised to shock the movie colony. Lita's charges had been sensational and promising to involve noted screen actresses, and the comedian had encountered with equal promise of sensation.

Charges of Lita. Mrs. Chaplin testified that during the first two months of their marriage the comedian had only taken her out twice and this for the sake of appearances.

"I don't see how I interfered with your work, I never saw you," she said she had told Chaplin when he complained she was interfering with his career.

Lita testified her husband never came home until after 1 a. m. She traced the events which led up to their separation. She said she brought eight guests home with her from a dinner party at the Biltmore hotel.

She charged the comedian had embarrassed her by objecting to their presence, and had ordered them from his home.

Charges Are Stricken. Shortly after court opened Judge Guerin ordered that all charges made by Mrs. Chaplin in her complaint, having to do with her pre-marital relations with Chaplin, be stricken from the record.

"I am happy to get this decree," Mrs. Chaplin said. "I'm going to devote all my time to my babies."

"I may seek a career in my own way, possibly in pictures or as a writer."

"A man who endeavors to make a world laugh must be first able to laugh himself," Chaplin said in an interview following the trial.

"I will return to work as soon as I regain a normal state of mind and body. I am sorrowful, but relieved that it is over."

Mrs. Chaplin appeared in the courtroom early, attired in a black satin coat, trimmed with white fox, and a chic black hat. Chaplin did not appear, but was represented by Attorney Gavin McNab, who, in a flowery burst of oratory, told of the comedian's decision to settle.

"He who steals my purse steals trash," but he who steals my good name has left me poor, indeed," McNab began in announcing that Chaplin had accepted the settlement because of casting a stigma upon the name of his children.

"Mr. Chaplin is the most generous man I have ever dealt with and it was his desire to settle rather than bring a stigma upon his children," McNab said.

TWO WOMEN PLAN ATLANTIC HOPS

New York, August 22.—(AP)—Two women aviators today had accepted the challenge of the Atlantic and announced that within the next few weeks they would attempt non-stop flights to Europe.

Mrs. Luba Phillips, Russian pilot of 16 years' experience who came to this country four years ago, plans to pilot a Wright-motored Pinner monoplane from New York to an undetermined destination in Europe, while Miss Ruth Elder, of Lakeland, Fla., hopes to pilot a specially built Stinson monoplane from Wheeling, W. Va., to Paris.

Meanwhile, unfavorable winds continue to hold to the ground at Mitchell field, L. I., the home-bound Pinner monoplane Old Glory, while several test flights remain before the Stinson monoplane Sir John Carling can take off on its projected flight from London, Ontario, to London, England.

Three youths were killed today when Southern railway train No. 30, en route to Washington, struck an automobile truck in which they were riding near Hurt, Va. Southern headquarters announced here.

Americans From Foreign Legion To Honor Tomb

Paris, August 22.—(AP)—The survivors of the little body of American volunteers in the French army at the beginning of the world war will be charged with the task of lighting the flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier on August 24, the anniversary of the incorporation of the first American volunteers, members of the American Legion were informed today.

Of the 20 American boys who went into the French foreign legion at the time there remain alive, so far as is known, only four—Joseph W. Ganson, president of the Volunteers association; Robert Souhrin, James Rach and Jean Mouvet. The latter is a brother of Maurice Mouvet, the dancer who died in Switzerland recently.

These four henceforth will be charged with the task of lighting the flame at the tomb of every anniversary of their incorporation, August 24.

The classification of a growing correspondence is now occupying most of the time of legion officials now in Paris, along with determination of odds and ends of the convention program, which has not yet been definitely adopted.

INQUEST CONTINUED IN WARDEN SLAYING

Savannah, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—The inquest held this afternoon to determine the facts surrounding the shooting and killing of Hiram Waller, Chatham county game warden, on Saturday morning, while pursuing his duties on the Ogeechee river, resulted in a postponement until Friday afternoon.

The extension of time was granted to Chief W. C. Chapman, of the Chatham county police after insufficient evidence had been produced by the various witnesses called upon to give their testimony in the affair. Judge John E. Schwarz is acting coroner in the case, due to the illness of Dr. George H. Johnson.

The two, Harry Morgan and Ralph Schuman, aged 24 and 19, respectively, are being held by police under suspicion of having been directly connected with the killing of Waller, while four other men are being held as material witnesses.

NO EXTRA COOK FOUND, LONDON GIRL ENDS LIFE

London, August 22.—(United News.) Despondent because she couldn't get an extra cook to cope with booming patronage, Miss Vida Gibson Pine, 29, sociat, girl, committed suicide in her fashionable "Pine Tree" restaurant.

The dead girl's mother, wife of an army officer, told at the inquest how her daughter had worried, fearing she would be unable to take care of all her customers.

On going to the restaurant shortly after the regular opening time, the mother testified, she found the restaurant door locked. She had a key and entering found her daughter dead in a gas-filled room.

"I have always been a failure since the beginning," said a letter found beside the body.

SOUTHERN PORT RATE FIGHT BOARD NAMED

Baltimore, August 22.—(AP)—The personnel of a committee of eight that will direct the fight to maintain the freight differential enjoyed by Baltimore and other South Atlantic ports over New York and Boston was announced today by G. H. Ponder, director of the export and import bureau of the Baltimore Association of Commerce.

In addition to Ponder, who is chairman, the committee is as follows: G. W. Stewart, Henderson, traffic manager of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce.

W. A. Cox, director of the port of Norfolk.

H. J. Wagner, traffic commissioner of the Norfolk-Portsmouth freight traffic commission.

W. D. Dimmitt, assistant foreign freight agent of the Norfolk & Western railway.

R. C. Greager, assistant foreign freight agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway.

W. S. Burton, general foreign freight agent of the Western Maryland railway.

G. S. Wise, foreign freight agent of the Canton railroad.

SACCO SPEAKER'S AUTHORITY DENIED BY RAIL CLERKS

C. A. Miller, president of Georgia Lodge Number 102, of the American Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Southern Railway system, Monday night issued a statement in which he denied that T. J. Stowe, who spoke Sunday night at a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting and who claimed to represent the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, has any connection with the organization.

Mr. Miller said further that L. W. Regal, general chairman of the brotherhood, had stated that he had no knowledge of T. J. Stowe as a member of the brotherhood.

Stowe made a "hot" speech Sunday night at the protest meeting in which he denounced capital and claimed that Sacco and Vanzetti had been "framed."

He claimed to represent the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and also the Workers' Communist party, stating that he had been authorized at a meeting of the brotherhood in Richmond to speak for the organization in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

Radicals' Counsel Wage Desperate Legal Battle

Boston, August 22.—(AP)—The swift succession of legal moves in the seven years' fight to save Sacco and Vanzetti marked the last hours before the time set for their execution.

The day had marked defeat for them at every step. With the evening they not only appealed again to Governor Fuller for "any kind of clemency," but tried one judge after another.

A plea to Judge Anderson, of the U. S. circuit court of appeals, who is at Williamstown, failed, the judge refusing to take any action.

Judge Lowell, of the federal district court, refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus or a stay of execution.

Then the attorneys went to Beverly to appeal once more to Justice Holmes, of the United States supreme court, who twice previously had declined to intervene.

One of their number talked with the governor and then with Attorney General Reading.

At the death house Sacco and Vanzetti were visited this evening, for the third time of the day by Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti, who later went to the state house to see the governor.

Gardner Jackson, head of the defense committee, called at the prison and asked Warden Hendry about arrangements for receiving the bodies of the two men after electrocution.

Wanted Relatives.

Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti came back to the prison again after Attorney William G. Thompson, former counsel for the condemned men, visited the death cells and brought word to the warden that the men wanted to see them again.

Miss Vanzetti and Mrs. Sacco entered the death cells at 7 o'clock. They remained 10 minutes later and again left the jail for defense headquarters in town.

Thompson's visit to the jail was entirely unexpected and due, he said, to the fact that he had been called from his summer home in North Conway, N. H., by Vanzetti.

Thompson said that he "had a talk" with both men and that each was determined to insist on his absolute innocence.

"Vanzetti told me," he continued, "that no lawyer who had ever been connected with the defense could say or hint that he ever in any way or words whatever said anything which could possibly be interpreted as an admission of any guilt."

The lawyer said he naturally "could not engage in any public discussion of the case at this time," adding that a study of the report of the governor and his advisory committee had in no way changed his belief in the innocence of his former clients.

The last day was for both Sacco and Vanzetti comparatively busy one. The forenoon brought a visit first from Michael A. Musmanno, of the defense legal staff. He remained only a few minutes.

Chaplain Called On.

The Rev. Michael Murphy, prison chaplain, then called on them with a final plea that they prepare themselves spiritually for death.

He urged them to receive the sacrament and return to the faith which both forsook many years ago. Neither heeded his request, each declared he preferred to die as he had lived, outside the pale.

Soon after the chaplain's visit Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti arrived. They remained an hour, sitting on benches outside the cells and conversing earnestly with the two men.

After the women were seen, Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti were sentenced to die with them, although for another crime, arrived to see her brother.

While the women were in the death house Dr. Joseph L. McLaughlin, the prison physician, called upon them.

He found them apparently as cheerful as at any time. The men had slept well during the night and appeared rested. Vanzetti had taken an early morning nap from which he had not awakened until Rev. Father Murphy appeared. The men, according to the physician, were in good condition mentally and physically.

Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti left the death house and returned to their cells. The two women then showed no signs of breaking down. They were met by Dr. Edith Jackson, of New Haven, in whose custody they were placed. Three hours later they returned for an hour and a half. When they left both women showed the effects of the farewell. Mrs. Sacco was crying, and Miss Vanzetti was supporting her, the latter with a handkerchief to her face.

Given Last Supper.

Shortly after the women left the men were given their supper, the last meal they expected. It consisted of soup, beef tea, toast and tea. Both men as well as Madros, ate the food.

During the afternoon the men were visited also by Attorney Musmanno with a habeas corpus petition which he asked them to sign. Vanzetti signed, but Sacco refused, who presented a similar petition was presented previously to the respite granted 12 days ago.

The condemned men faced nothing in the way of preparations for execution. The clothing which they had worn regularly was to be unchanged.

Offering only the fact that the trousers legs had been slit to receive the electrodes through which the death contact is made at the top of the head by means of a dampened sponge in the death mask placed over the face and head.

Within the death chamber all preparations had been completed. The men were ready to meet their fate for the execution that was deferred. The executioner, Robert Elliott, whose arrival was secret, was said to have tested out the apparatus.

GREEN MAKES PLEA FOR SACCO-VANZETTI

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—A last minute appeal to Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, to commute the sentences of Sacco and Vanzetti was made today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green's message read:

"In behalf of millions of workingmen and women affiliated with the American Federation of Labor I make one last appeal to you to commute the death sentence imposed upon Sacco and Vanzetti. These workingmen and women for whom I speak are loyal to our government and have faith in American institutions, but they are troubled and in doubt regarding the guilt or innocence of these men. Because of this state of mind they plead for the triumph of justice and mercy over legal technicalities.

"While the personalities of Sacco and Vanzetti may mean little, faith in the integrity of our courts and in the instrumentalities of government is of transcendent importance. The success of government depends upon the confidence which its citizenship manifests in governmental institutions.

"I urge you to commute the sentences of Sacco and Vanzetti to life imprisonment so that time may be given the opportunity to develop facts which may establish their guilt or innocence."

Auditorium Built at Lanett by Mill Is Opened to Public

Lanett, Ala., August 22.—(Special).—The newly completed Lanett auditorium was the scene today of a barbecue and dedicatory cornerstone laying by the Masonic fraternity of Alabama.

Several hundred members of the Masonic order and guests participated in the exercises, which were conducted in a most dignified and appropriate manner by Acting Grand Master Pearson.

Before the laying of the cornerstone, which contained many memorials, a barbecue was served in the basement of the building.

The new structure also contains library, band rooms and many other adjuncts of a satisfactory community center.

The building was erected by the West Point Manufacturing company for the benefit and entertainment of their employees and their families.

Sacco - Vanzetti Used Red Theories on Every Occasion

Boston, August 22.—(AP)—The philosophy which guided Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, both before their arrest and during their long imprisonment, found expression time and again in their writings and on the rare occasions when they had opportunity to voice them during their seven-year fight for freedom.

Day after day they spent hours in their cells penning pages that never found readers, though some of their writings from the prison were printed.

When the death sentence finally was pronounced at Dedham last April they were permitted to speak. Sacco's utterance was brief, but Vanzetti utilized the opportunity to the utmost.

Sacco, talking of the sentence, said he knew it would be "between the two classes, the oppressed class and the rich class, and there will be always collision between one and the other."

Theories Again.

Criticizing Judge Webster Thayer, who had presided at the trial and who sentenced the men, Sacco again injected his theories.

"You persecute the people, try to force them over them and kill them. We try to put a path between us and some other nationality that hates each other."

Vanzetti, denying his guilt, declared he not only did not commit the crimes of which he was charged, but said: "Not only have I struggled hard against crimes but I have refused myself the common glory of life, the pride of life of a good position, because in my consideration it is not right to exploit man. I have refused to go into business because I understand that business is a speculation profit upon certain people that must depend upon the business man, and do not consider that is right and therefore I refuse to do that."

Throughout his life, he declared he had struggled "to eliminate crimes, the crimes that the official law and the official moral condemn, but also the crime that the official moral and the official law sanctions and sanctifies—the exploitation and the oppression of the man by the man."

Anarchist, Italian and Slackers.

Though both men read much during their imprisonment Vanzetti wrote more for expression of his views. In one document he set these forth at length, and in the course of it he wrote:

"The plutocracy rules effectively the world with the help of a big majority of common people and the acquiescence of the great masses."

Of himself and Sacco, he said: "We are anarchist, Italians and slackers. As anarchists we are the most misunderstood, feared and hated of individuals by the American rugged and golden mobs. As Italians we belong to one of the most scorned and despised nationalities as adversaries of the war. Of the slackers we deserve the rope in the opinion of the vulgar majority of the American people, who tried and judged us."

Finest train to the Pacific Northwest!

The MILWAUKEE ROAD

The New Olympian introduces a fresh epoch in rail transportation! Gliding on roller bearings, it is literally the finest thing on wheels. Every last detail is new in the most modern sense. Club-like lounges for both men and women. New-type observation-car, charmingly appointed. Exquisite drawing-rooms and compartments. Dining-cars like intimate corners of fashionable cafes. Staterooms like those of a yacht. Valet and maid service. Separate baths for men and women.

Coil spring mattresses in both lower and upper berths. New electrical conveniences throughout. Original designs in electric lighting, electric ventilating system that provides one thousand cubic feet of pure fresh air per hour to every passenger.

The route of the New Olympian is the shortest, most modern to the Pacific, electrified for 660 miles—nearly one-third of the journey from Chicago to Seattle-Tacoma. No extra fare is charged on this greatest of all trains.

FARMER BEATEN BY MOONSHINERS

Tampa, August 22.—(AP)—A. S. Henry, 50, a farmer living at Tarpon Junction, 10 miles northwest of here, was attacked and flogged at his home yesterday and severely beaten by a gang of moonshiners who sought to use his property as a means of access to their still in a nearby swamp, according to the story he told officers today.

The hearing, he said, took place yesterday afternoon when he attempted to stop two men whom he said were removing fence posts he had placed at the boundary of his property.

"When I attempted to stop them," the farmer told officers, "the two men took after me and caught me before I could get back to the house."

The younger one knocked me down and beat me pretty bad. He finally got me under a barbed wire fence and then the other one struck me over the head three or four times."

FLIER, SAVANNAH BOUND, IS LOST SOUTH OF NORFOLK

Norfolk, Va., August 22.—(AP)—William N. Dewald, commercial flier, supposedly is lost today somewhere between Norfolk and Savannah, Ga., on his journey from New York to New Orleans in the Fokker seaplane, "Big George," which is owned by the St. Tammany Gulfport Airways, of New Orleans.

Dewald left the Hampton Roads naval air station here at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning for Savannah and has not been heard from since.

Dewald arrived here Saturday and spent the night. He told friends that his plane had developed some trouble, but naval authorities had not heard of this.

NO SIGHT OF PLANE ON SAVANNAH WATERS.

Savannah, Ga., August 22.—(AP)—There is no indication that William N. Dewald in the Fokker seaplane "Big George" has alighted in local waters.

He has not been seen either at the Tybee Inner Roads anchorage for seaplanes, at Thunderbolt, where army seaplanes have previously alighted, or at any of the stretches along the river from Tybee to Savannah.

CHICAGO JUDGE FLAYS RADICAL DEMONSTRATIONS

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)

Chicago, August 22.—Radicals were given some straight-from-the-shoulder advice by Judge William R. Fetzner today when they were brought before him on charges of violent disturbance on behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

"You people might as well understand right now that you cannot run Chicago or this country," said the judge to the motley group of heads. "Organizations, associations or affiliations cannot and must not attempt to interfere with what courts of another state or this state do. Judges and prosecutors are competent, and will do their duty."

"Those of you who do not like the way this country is conducted can get out and return to your own lands. It is none of your business what is done by the courts of Massachusetts or any other part of this country."

"This country is not taking dictation from any disorderly group, and more especially those of you and your companions in other lands who are openly against all forms of government. If you cannot obey the laws of this country, the safest plan for you is to get out of it at once."

CONVICT AND GUARD SHOT IN JAIL BREAK

McAlester, Okla., August 22.—(AP)—Sam Fields, prison sergeant, and Clarence Eno, a convict, were wounded in an exchange of shots preceding an unsuccessful break for freedom by five prisoners from the state prison last night.

Willis Widow, Chum Indicted For His Murder

Greenville, S. C., August 22.—(AP) Trial of Mrs. Ethel Willis and Henry S. Townsend in connection with the slaying of the woman's husband, Sheriff Sam D. Willis, was set late today for Thursday after a grand jury had indicted them jointly on a charge of murder.

Millie L. Bonham in circuit court after he had denied a motion by defense counsel to postpone it until Monday. The couple will be arraigned Thursday morning.

Sheriff Willis, a war veteran and well-known peace officer of the state, was mysteriously slain near his garage late on the night of June 11. Shortly afterward Townsend, who was his comrade in France and later his chief deputy, was arrested. A few days later Mrs. Willis also was taken into custody.

Both were released on bond two weeks later.

Hearing in which the state offered testimony of several witnesses in an effort to show that a close friendship existed between Mrs. Willis and Townsend, of which the sheriff was aware. The 31-year-old widow and mother of four children, however, submitted an affidavit denying undue intimacy with her co-defendant, who is a married man.

Members of the family of Sheriff Willis' manufacturing company for Mrs. Willis' bond and expressed the utmost confidence in her in public statements. Since his release under bond, Townsend has been employed in a local store.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned by both sides and expectation in court circles was that the trial would continue more than a week. Neither defendant was in court today when the indictment was returned.

Emil Jannings Is Truly Great In Howard Film

This is sob week at the Howard theater. Those weeping Willies who just love to wet their eyelashes in a good, old-fashioned cry will find ample material for a tear fest in "The Way of All Flesh."

Tolstoy's favorite ending is employed in this picture with the effect of making the story truer to life than a happy ending would be. There is an Enchanted strain to the story, yet without a second marriage of the wife, and there is a parallel to Samson's story in that the downfall of August Schilling came on the heels of his yielding to the lure of a confidence man and having his beard shaved off.

Although trick photography is not employed to a great extent in "The Way of All Flesh," the camera work betrays the hand of a master, while the story is told without a single unessential detail, the sequence hanging together faithfully. Emil Jannings, imported German film star, whose work in "Variety" stamped him as one of the greatest historic figures of the screen, carries on his good work in this newest picture, and portrays the jovial old German bank cashier to anybody's satisfaction.

"The Way of All Flesh" has its lighter moments, however, and the audience is not overdone.

A beautiful, modest young man whose only name is "Jerry," if Al Short is it right, does a slow motion dance that makes the audience fairly crawl in their clothes, it's that good. Spending his action a bit Jerry goes through some of the limerick and best wiggling dance steps you ever saw.

There is plenty of good live music in the stage presentation, with Al Short's Melody Boys up to their usual high standard. —BEN COOPER.

DEBS MEMORIAL RADIO STATION WILL BE SET UP

New York, August 22.—(AP)—The initials of Eugene V. Debs will be incorporated in the new call letters of radio broadcasting station WDOM, recently purchased by the Debs Memorial radio fund as a tribute to the socialist leader.

Richard Rohman, representative of the fund, said that the federal radio commission had authorized the call letters WEVD. He said that the trustees had hoped to call the station WDRDS, but five-letter designations are reserved for aircraft carrying radio equipment.

The station, located at Woodhaven, Long Island, is to be taken over on October 1, and will be a "crusading vehicle for union labor," Rohman said.

OPERATIC TURN LEADS SPLENDID BILL AT KEITH'S

Featuring an excellent operatic turn and including four other acts which are all of a comedy nature, the Keith Georgia bill this week bids to be one of the best seen this season at the Keith house. On the screen is "Lost at the Front," a rollicking war farce featuring Charlie Murray and George Sidney.

The "Tumbling Clowns" open up the show with an act which is designated by the program as "a unique display of human endurance in equilibrium art," but in spite of the billing it turns out to be an excellent offering. Mary Ann and Werner are second on the bill with "Some Sense and Some Nonsense," another act which clicks by virtue of Mary Ann's nice voice and a slue of slapstick comedy by Werner.

Burlesque extraordinary is on tap in the turn of Walter Baldwin and Geraldine Blair, who present very comical and very good "takeoffs" on some of the old-time "drummers" and also on the sophisticated Mr. Aden's "Green Hat." Joe Rome and Lou Gault occupy fourth place with a nonsensical line of foolishness which took a great hand in the first night show.

One of the pair is extremely tall and the other very short. Caesar Rivoli's "The Memories of the Opera" is the closing and headlining act, and it is probably true that no other vaudeville act of this nature has scored quite so heavily as did Rivoli's offering Monday night. It easily holds the show by the throat.

Mosier from "Il Travatore" took one of the biggest hands ever accorded an act here.

LARGE AUDIENCES
APPROVE CAPITOL
VAUDEVILLE BILL

One of the most varied and most entertaining bills that has appeared here in many weeks opened the week's program at the Capitol theater Monday afternoon before a crowded house. The unusually well balanced bill was followed by one of the late James Oliver Curwood's famous stories, "Back to God's Country," with Renee Adoree as the star.

Emmy Barbier and Charles J. Sims and company in "Action, Camera" were the headlines on the program and offered an unusually clever and novel act. It depicted the producing of a movie and showed many of the difficulties directors and cameramen must face in making a picture. It was far different from the usual vaudeville.

Another act that scored a big hit was "Four Fool-Loose Fools" in a combination of song and dance numbers. The act included some of the best music and tap dancing that has been heard at the Capitol in a long time.

Paula and Paquita opened the program with a novelty Spanish dance entitled "Dreamy Spain." They were followed by Jolly and Wild in "Comedies of 1927," with a clever line of "chatter" that received a hearty applause from the crowded house.

The Four Karys, a band of Spanish melody, closed the bill with some excellent acrobatic stunts.

An overture featuring "Hits of Yesterday," selections from "No. 10, Nautica," and a vaudeville and comedy complete the program. —ROY WHITE.

"NEVADA"
GARY COOPER-THREMA TODD
"Ice Cold Cocos"
MACK BENNETT COMEDY

None of its regular and extensive clientele will miss going to the Rialto theater this week. They will love "Nevada," the current feature.

Gary Cooper is there for the first time as a hero in a Zane Grey western story—and what a hero. It is no wonder the producers are crying because they did not discover and exploit Cooper before. Zane Grey must have been a great fan of "Nevada," especially for him. This latter question ought to be settled by "The Last Outlaw," which, it is understood, is slated for showing at the Rialto in the near future.

Thelma Todd, the newest and one of the most plutocratic of the recent graduates from the comedy school of burlesque, is Cooper's leading woman and the romance warms war in the course of the thrilling action picture, not to speak of the streaks of comedy which offset the touching melodrama of the picture.

"Nevada," incidentally, is the last full-length picture to be shown at the Rialto before the two-week policy, recently announced, takes effect beginning the week of August 23. Then maybe we can arrange to see two Zane Grey pictures like "Nevada" at the Rialto in one week. We'll have to see Manager Murray about that.

There is at the Rialto this week also a comedy called "Ice Cold Cocos," and the stamp of Mack Bennett is on it. You just know it's good.

Frank Turner's orchestra, assisted by the new Wurlitzer, provides plenty of fine music for the enjoyable program.

HARMONY AND FUN COMBINE IN STRONG PROGRAM AT GRAND

With a jolly and merry crowd of vaudevillians capering through a real fun festival, and with "Adam and Evil" turning out to be one of the funniest pictures offered in Atlanta in years, the new program which opened Monday at Loew's Grand theater is a humdinger from start to finish.

The vaudeville bill is headed by Dave Kramer and Jack Boyle, and they are two real showmen. They take a lot of nonsense, mix it up with a couple of real sentimental ballads, and throw in some burlesque to the burlesque days and make of it one of the most entertaining comedy features seen here.

There are twelve of the Harvard boys, billed as the Harvard Collegians, and they are up to the minute "collegiate" with their music, dances and songs. They bring a jazz band that contains some able musicians and play a program that pleases.

Phil Fein and Florence Tenyson, both possessing sweet voices, brought some singing which is much better than the ordinary run of the mine singing heard in vaudeville these days. Kramer and Boyle, a girl and boy of the teen age class, but they entertained with some fast and snappy dancing and an attractive song number, which ended with a graceful minuet.

The opening act was a marvelous gymnastic turn offered by the Donald boys, who performed some wonderful feats with grace and ease.

In "Adam and Evil" Lew Cody plays a dual role and is ably supported by Aileen Pringle and a star cast.

—PAUL STEVENSON.

"DANCE MAGIC,"
AT METROPOLITAN
DIVERTING FILM

Atlanta's selection of their entertainment from theater row this week will do well to invest at the Metropolitan box office. The picture is "Dance Music," the players Ben Lyon and Pauline Starke.

The story is that of a very small girl who had rather than sit on a hard bench in the village school, Pauline went to New York, of course. The child was wearing mittens and carrying an umbrella. . . . and she saw her name blaze in Broadway.

Her sudden fame was a tax on the credulity of the audience, a person might suppose; yet most anything could be expected of a girl who positively refused to step into a Rolls Royce.

Reached a rather high mark of intensity. Perhaps the censor had misplaced his scissors when that slipped the picture, and the audience did not mind very much; they rather enjoyed it.

News-reels showed the start of the ill-fated Honolulu air derby. While alert photographers cranked their cameras, plane after plane got away to a start that sent many from the ken of man. . . . only the Pacific knows the finish. That little school teacher was coming, coming, coming.

The audience found additional pleasure in Enrico Lieke's orchestral numbers, and, too, there was a comedy.

The story is especially gripping and it holds the interest throughout the five reels of an entertaining picture as could be made. Clara Bow in "Shadow of the Law" is the feature for tomorrow.

Madison.
Brilliant and scintillating little Clara Bow, the personification of pep and the screen's best portrayal of "flapper" roles, is starred in "The Adventurous Sex," which is on view at the new Madison theater in East Atlanta for today only. This picture, made shortly before Clara sprang into international fame, shows her at a time when her excellent work was beginning to attract the attention of all the producers. It will be for her exceptionally entertaining. "The Bad Man" will be shown tomorrow.

West End.
Beautiful Anita Stewart will end a successful engagement in "Whispering Wires," the thrilling mystery-comedy, tonight. A sterling cast supports Miss Stewart in this production which is based on the stage play of the same name that enthralled New York for almost a year. The action is fast and furious throughout. For tomorrow the West End theater will present "The Penalty."

Palace.
"The Show," a vivid story of the underworld which is shown tonight for the last time at the Palace theater, stars John Gilbert and Renee Adoree. The picture is a New York for the underworld, a gangster picture, a strange European intrigue. The opening scenes are a "palace of illusions" or side show at a demon. Tomorrow Fred Thompson will be seen in "The Two Gun Man."

Tenth Street.
"The Yankee Clipper," a thrilling picture of the glorious days of America's sea power, which has been shown again tonight at the Tenth Street theater. William Boyd and Elinor Fair have the lead roles. The villain is Walter Long, while Junior Coghlan has an excellent role that of a wharf rat with a hatred for women. There are numerous thrilling scenes. On Wednesday the Tenth Street will offer "Love's Greatest Mistake."

DeKalb.
John Gilbert, the American soldier of "The Big Parade," plays a role that is the antithesis of that of Leo, the villain who plays the Devil, which plays for the last times today at the DeKalb theater. It is supported by Greta Garbo, the charming of the story and Lara Hannon, the third figure in the tragic triangle. On Wednesday Zane Grey's story, "The Mysterious Rider," will be shown, starring Jack Holt.

Capitol View.
All the mysterious thrill of Sherlock Holmes and the heart-pull of Burke's Limehouse tales is contained in Rialto-Tin-Tin's latest starring vehicle, "The Mysterious Rider," which is an all-star feature, "Born to the West."

Tudor.
For a rough and ready western, "Hard Fists" is showing at the Tudor, can hardly be beat. It stars Art Acord and is the story of a big cowboy, under threat for a crime he committed, forced into a crooked racing game until his better spirit rouses itself and gives him the fighting courage to face his enemies and fight them away. Several very good racing shots are shown, as well as much of the very fast action usually associated with this sort of outdoor attraction.

Fairfax.
Douglas Fairbanks' first independent picture and the first offering of United Artists corporation was "His Majesty, the American." In this picture Doug took a big step forward to higher fame. He plays the adventurous thrill-seeking young American who circles the globe in his search of it.

Watts, who started out some time after Bobby had concluded his hectic life, had been playing with three exceptions would have made his final score slightly akin to par.

He was getting both good direction and length to his shots, his approaches were on the whole accurate and his putting with one or two lapses was up to its usual high standard.

He played the first nine in two over perfect figures. The cause of this was a badly topped drive on the hard seventh which he followed with a six. He went over on the second when he required three putts, but got this back with a birdie on the long fourth when one putt was all he needed.

He lost a stroke to par on both the 10th and 11th holes, but gathered his birdie at the 13th when, after pulling his drive and getting out on the second, his beautiful spoon shot landed on the carpet and he sank a 30 footer for a four. This spoon effort was his best of the round.

The next three were played in par figures, then came the 17th and his downfall for a low score. Watts sliced his drive to the deep rough on this hole and followed with one out of bounds. His next shot found a trap guarding the green and it took one more to get on and three to get down. With the exception of his play on the seventh and 17th and the missing of a three footer on the 10th Watts' work was very good.

Cook Off to Bad Start.
Gene Cook got off to a bad start when he took three putts for the first hole and from then on the Atlanta boy never could seem to get going.

All the favorites seem to be coasting along in good position. George von Elm, the champion, has been posted opposite his name as a mute testimonial to frequent wanderings over the course, but the 79 should be followed tomorrow by a round that will bring him in the charmed circle. Chick Evans and Francis Ouimet are tied with Bobby at 75, with H. R. Johnston, one stroke ahead of them. George Voigt is on the outer circle with an 80, but his fellow Washingtonian, Roland McKenzie, is holding up the honor of the Capital City with a neat 76.

enough to sink a fairly long putt for his par three.

His First Trouble.
Trouble lay in wait for him at the fourth tee when his drive accepted one of the 13 opportunities the course offers to wander out of bounds. Instead of putting his ball out of bounds, he shot only a fair drive to a great second tee shot, a splendid second and a pitch that landed him within 10 feet of the hole from which to putt.

He pushed his drive to the rough where it came to rest in the rough grass and he found that the bad drive and worse lie only served to give the setting for one of his best recoveries of the day. Taking a mashie iron, he banged into the ball with such force and accuracy that it came to rest just a little short of the green. He was on in three and down in two.

The eighth furnished no excitement but the ninth saw Bobby again go on a sight-seeing excursion. This time he started his former procedure by pulling the ball out of the rough, but the left grass is just as tough on the left side of the fairway as on the right, however, and his recovery while good, did not put him in a position to green, and hopes of getting back a stroke on old man par went glimmering. He did turn the old boy off, however, with a five, which ended him to turn in 36, just one stroke over perfect figures.

While the first part of the 18-hole course was well-tried and tribulations to Bobby, the second nine was a nightmare. Where the acknowledged steady golfer in the world found trouble on at least four holes of that outward gallop, he encountered heartache and sorrow on no less than five holes of the incoming nine.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton, of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 100 Massachusetts street, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential. (adv.)

Hudson Moore, Jr., Passes Examination For Oxford College

A telegram received in Atlanta Monday by Charles A. Davis from Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Moore, of Denver, Colo., announced that their son, Hudson Moore, Jr., had passed his examinations to admit him to Oxford college, and that he will sail from New York on the Leviathan October 1.

Mr. Moore was graduated in civil engineering from the University of Colorado, at Boulder, Colo., last June, winning the Rhodes scholarship, which entitles him to the A. B. degree at Oxford. He finished a three-year course in French in three months, qualifying in Latin also, thereby meeting the necessary qualifications which will entitle his entrance at Oxford.

Mr. Moore is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Davis, and nephew of Mrs. Prince Webster and Mrs. R. M. Bailey. He was born in Alabama, residing in this city until about ten years ago, when his parents moved away on account of the health of Hudson Moore, Sr., who was one of the leading lawyers in the city.

Hudson Moore, Jr., possesses brilliant mentality, is a profound student, led his classes at college, and took active part in athletics at the university.

Warm, Sunshiny
Weather on Tap
After Cold Snap

Atlantans woke up Sunday morning to the accompaniment of chattering teeth and whistling breezes and though they couldn't have known that reality was just ahead, they must have suspected it. The weather was so cold that it was reported that during the wee sma' hours of Sunday, when the august general assembly was attempting to untwine itself from the snarl in which it had become enmeshed, it was "turned on" in the capitol. This has not been verified, however, and seems doubtful, in view of the fact that a sufficient volume of "the air" was at large to satisfactorily moderate the temperature in a building much larger than the statehouse.

In any event, to become official, the mercury descended to a low mark of 57 degrees, thereby coming within two points of breaking Atlanta's all-time August record, which was established on August 31, 1887, when a drop to 55 degrees was recorded. As it was, the 57 of Sunday was the coldest August day in an even dozen years, according to C. F. von Herrmann, in charge of the local office of the weather bureau. In August, 1915, the low mark of 57 degrees, the same as was recorded Sunday, was reached; in August, 1891, it reached 56, and in August, 1887, the mercury descended to 55.

Though still chilly Monday was considerably more pleasant than the day previous. A high mark of 87 was recorded and a low of 64. Today is expected to continue warm and sunshiny with about the same temperature range.

Admission to Agnes Scott
On account of the rush that always occurs just before the opening of college, we are advising Day Students—both those who were here last year and new ones—to make registration arrangements some time in advance. The opening date this year is September 14th.

According to custom, the college holds open twenty-five boarding spaces, known as "honorary spaces," for young women of unusual promise. These may be filled from the waiting list, but are open also to new applicants of specially good preparation. This list is regularly closed about September 1st.

FRIENDS TO HONOR CANDLER TONIGHT

Tribute to Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, as a man, as a minister, as a bishop and as an educator will be paid today on his 70th birthday by his hosts of friends and admirers. Bishop Candler will be the guest of honor at a reception and entertainment at 8 o'clock tonight at the Druid Hills Methodist church.

An interesting program is being arranged for the reception, in which E. V. McCord, Jr., A. G. Pound, W. D. Thompson, the Rev. A. M. Pierce, Judge H. Warner Hill, Bishop W. D. Buchanan, W. Perry Blount, Mrs. Hugh H. Harris and other friends of Bishop Candler will take part.

The Atlanta Methodist Stewards' association, John M. Slaton, president, has been invited to attend the reception and a large number of the members have accepted the invitation. All denominations will be represented at the reception, as Bishop Candler is a man of widespread friendships, though connection is solely with the Methodist church.

Bishop Candler has led an active and highly interesting life. He was appointed a bishop in 1880 and one of the chief accomplishments of his career has been the founding of missions in Mexico. In addition to his duties as a bishop he has found time for a great deal of writing and is the author of a number of religious works.

Bishop Candler has been chancellor of Emory university and has ways taken a great interest in the activities of the institution.

He was born August 23, 1857, in Carroll county.

'IRREGULAR' ELECTION
DENIED BY J. A. PERRY

James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission, in a statement issued Monday, denied that any irregularity or illegality appeared in connection with his reelection as chairman of the commission, as charged by Commissioner Walter R. McDonald, in a communication made public Saturday.

In explaining what he declares to be a thoroughly regular meeting and election, Chairman Perry brings out that while he regrets the necessity of a public controversy, he feels that his integrity has been "purposefully, wilfully and falsely" challenged by Mr. McDonald and that a reply is necessary to indicate his position.

Three other members of the commission, Albert J. Woodruff, O. R. Bennett and C. W. Parker, in a similar statement Monday, bore out Chairman Perry's contention that the election was regular and in order.

Chairman Perry's statement, in part, follows:

Perry Statement.

"There was nothing irregular about this election of officers. As admitted by him, the commission took up the question on August 9, the election two years ago took place on August 11; and after Commissioner McDonald was unable to carry a motion that the election be postponed, as emphasized by him, until after the legislature had adjourned, he then made a compromise motion that the election be held on August 16.

"On this date Commissioner Parker was unable to be present, and the matter went over to the following day, pending his arrival in the city. Commissioner Parker was taken sick en route to Atlanta, and on arrival went immediately to the Piedmont hotel, where he remained in bed throughout the day, unable to get to the office. Due to his illness, he returned home Wednesday night, and advised me by telephone on Thursday that he would be unable to return for a few days.

"During the week when the matter was first discussed on August 9, Commissioner Parker asked me to hold a meeting to reorganize the commission as soon as a majority of the commission might be able to agree; he sent me the same message by Hon. John W. Bennett, of Waycross, on August 13; he advised me in his sick room at the Piedmont hotel late in the afternoon of August 17, to reorganize the commission, if possible, precisely in the manner it was reorganized on Friday, August 19.

"After it was apparent that Commissioner Parker would not be able to return for an indefinite period, and due to a disgraceful campaign that was being carried on in the city of Atlanta in an effort to elect Commissioner McDonald chairman, which I have every reason to believe was sponsored by him, Commissioners Bennett, Woodruff and myself agreed that the reorganization should be had. This conclusion reached, I had the secretary of the commission notify the entire personnel of the commission, except Commissioner Parker, who was at home sick, that the commission would go into executive session at a certain time. Commissioner McDonald immediately took Commissioner Bennett to his private office, where they remained until Commissioner Bennett came to the hearing room and announced that Commissioner McDonald told him that he would not attend the session of the commission as called.

"Mr. John Wilson, secretary to the governor, has since told me that he was present and heard Commissioner McDonald tell Commissioner Bennett that he would not attend the session of the commission as called. The election was regularly held, and just as it was concluded Commissioner McDonald appeared in the room, and denied that he had made such a statement just attributed to have been made in the presence of Mr. Wilson and Commissioner Bennett. These are all the facts pertaining to this election, and Commissioner McDonald's pretense as an excuse for starting a campaign for reelection must be apparent to every one who reads this."

STATE OWNERSHIP OF MOUNTAIN SEEN

In a statement to the press Monday, Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association, said that he expects the next legislature to take over the project, a bill to this end having been favorably reported in both houses during the session just ended and failing of passage in the last minute jam of legislation. The statement follows:

"The bill to create a state park at Stone Mountain, in charge of a commission having authority to take title to the monument and adjacent premises, and with authority to make suitable arrangements with any person owning lands within the park, was introduced in the legislature on August 16. There is no question that the bill would have passed both houses of the legislature if it had not been for the constructive bills of public interest introduced at the same time and which were shut off in the legislative jam.

"We are well pleased with the progress made, because the principle of state ownership of the monument has been firmly established and will never be dislodged, and the legislature next year will, in my judgment, be certain to pass this bill or something similar to it. There can be no legitimate controversy on the proposition that the title to the monument and adjacent premises should be in the state, particularly in as much as other southern states are to be asked to contribute the cost of carrying their heroes on the mountain.

"We are deeply grateful to the legislature for giving this matter so much consideration. The attitude manifested by the members of both houses was admirably patriotic and constructive. Especially three or four of the members of the legislature were particularly helpful in their exhaustive study of all phases of the situation at Stone Mountain.

"The association will go ahead with the carrying operations, which are progressing rapidly so as to carry the monument as far as possible toward completion, pending the day when the state shall assume ownership of it. If or when it is not proposed and will not be proposed by the association for the state to assume any responsibility or obligation whatever to finance the cost of the carrying.

"The enemies of the monument created some heat and fury and fire, but the expected, and more would not have been a surprise."

GEORGIA KIWANIS CLUBS TO GATHER HERE ON SEPT. 13

Kiwanis organizations of 17 Georgia cities have been bidden to an inter-club entertainment on September 13 at which the Atlanta Kiwanis will be hosts. The affair will be held at East Lake Country club.

They Wouldn't Believe

SYNOPSIS.
On the way to Donald Brierley's house for luncheon, Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of his father's.

Olive is secretly in love with Donald, but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.
Sandle and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Brierley of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Brierley, Donald's father, is found to have died when the Titanic sank, calls on Sandle. Querk suggests to Sandle that he invite Brierley to Harrowby house, and there, with the assistance of Querk's clerk, W. E., dispose of Brierley.

Connie decides to test the old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mr. Jones is out, but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

The Eye-Witness.

There were photographs, too, on the mantelpiece—reminders of a treasured past. There was a photograph of Mrs. Jones with a child in her arms, and the child was Connie herself. There was a photo of a young man, fine enough looking in spite of an uncertainty about the mouth—Ned Jones, who has risked his life to save his mother's charge from drowning.

"O, if Donald gets the money we will find Ned and help him into something!" Instinctively Connie felt that the young man could not have made his own way in the world. If he had done so he would surely have written to his mother!

She peered into the mirror above the mantelpiece, straightened her hat, and pulled a tress of hair into position above her ear. The hat was home made and home embroidered; but Connie had the gift of looking expensively turned out on a very modest sum indeed, and spent on her adornment little more than Olive spent on gloves. . . . Scrutinizing herself in the high mirror, Connie smiled, not at what she saw there, but at the memory of Donald's eyes when she had walked up the garden path toward him. So long as he thought her good to look at that was all that mattered.

Her thoughts slipped on into a glowing reverie of the future—to be abruptly broken by a faint and unmistakable echo from the vast house that towered above her.

Instantly also there came that queer sense that she was not alone.

She felt her heart beating quickly and immediately told herself that she was being foolish. What if there were someone in the house? There might be a dozen simple explanations. It might be Mr. Querk himself. . . . Yet there was someone in the house when the caretaker was out.

It was no affair of hers, she reasoned, and, womanlike, the next instant had opened the door and was listening.

She crept up the basement stairs to the ground floor, tiptoed across the marble hall, and for the moment was untraced by the stiffness of the house. She had been over it once before, but had been with Mr. Querk and nurse. It had seemed magnificent then. Now, in the growing darkness it seemed only huge and unfriendly. She turned about and looked up into the shadows of the staircase.

Behind her were the marble columns through which one gained the outer vestibule and the main door. In front the staircase rose grandly up into the galleries of the first and second floors and ended under the dome of colored glass, which was one of the features of the house, the third and fourth floors being approached by side staircases, invisible from where she was standing. To her left were the shrouded reception rooms, and to her right what had been designed as a music room, but used by old Mr. Harrowby as a library.

Unmistakably there were voices in the library. She stole toward the door and again instinctively gripped her. It might be Mr. Querk with a friend or it might be—

In the vast, silent house, for a girl like herself to encounter strangers who perhaps had no right to be there—
"Don't be a little coward!" she whispered to herself. "Pull yourself together and think what Olive would do." For Connie there was always comfort in the thought of Olive. Olive would investigate, but would not run herself into senseless danger in doing so. Olive would find some-

Two Exclusive Optical Stores

No side lines of any nature. Making of the best glass brains, knowledge and money ever produced has been the chief concern of our firm since its inception. This has had much to do with the signal success of our business. The fact that the majority of our better oculists prefer you have us make your glasses indicates our ideas and ideals of optical service are correct. Just the fraction of an error in the making of your glasses or the adjustment of your frame makes the difference between comfort and discomfort. Your oculist knows what you need, and he knows you will get what he orders here—material and service 100%.

U. S. SENATOR SAVES WOMAN FROM DEATH

Shanghai, August 22.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, who recently completed a tour of China, believes that he was largely instrumental in saving the life of Madame Michael Borodin, wife of the Russian soviet adviser to the government at Hankow, who was arrested by Chang Tso-lin, head of the Pekin government, charged with taking part in the distribution of Russian communist propaganda in China.

Mme. Borodin was arrested some months ago while proceeding up the Yangtze river toward Hankow. At the time of Mrs. Borodin's arrival in Pekin under guard, Chang Tso-lin executed 20 Chinese communists, bringing about their deaths by strangling. Many reports were in circulation that Chang planned to execute Mme. Borodin. About that time Senator Bingham arrived in Pekin and held a conference with Chang Tso-lin. Recently Senator Bingham here recalled his conversation with Chang.

"I have just executed 20 communists and tomorrow I am going to execute Mme. Borodin," Senator Bingham declared Chang said to him.

"If you do, the west will put you down as a beast and a barbarian."

COLLEGE PARK SCHOOLS JOIN FULTON SYSTEM

College Park, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Merger of the College Park schools with the Fulton county system was authorized here today by a vote of 324 to 68. The referendum election was authorized recently by an act of the legislature and today's action follows that of East Point, which voted last Thursday to join the Fulton system.

LAWLESS MEMBERS OF KLAN CHARGED WITH FLOGGINGS

Wedowee, Ala., August 22.—(AP)—"Intolerable conditions" in connection with recent floggings exist in Randolph county and blame for these conditions is due to "lawless members of an organization known and called the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan who have bound themselves to secrecy with reference thereto," according to a report today by the Randolph county grand jury.

The investigating body returned 45 true bills but none for flogging. The report said the jury was unable to secure evidence on which to indict.

The report described the use of "instruments of torture" and the serious injury of victims. It told of hidden automobile license tags and midnight activities in mask and hood and called on the Alabama legislature to pass a law prohibiting wearing of masks on a public highway.

JEWISH LEADER DIES IN CHARLESTON

Charleston, S. C., August 22.—(AP) Montague Triest, prominent realtor at Charleston, died suddenly in his office this morning. Mr. Triest was one of the Jewish leaders of the south, and was connected with several national Jewish organizations, particularly those of a philanthropic and charitable nature. He was one of Charleston's school commissioners for 19 years.

NAVY IS PUSHING PLANS TO BUILD HUGE MAGAZINE

Washington, August 22.—(AP)—The navy department is going forward with plans to develop near Yorktown, Va., a depot for storing explosives for the Atlantic fleet regardless of some opposition from a group of citizens.

Bids will be received September 7 for the construction of 77 concrete mines to hold the explosives, while August 24 bids will be opened for road construction in and around the 14,000 acre naval tract ceded to the government by the state of Virginia in 1917.

Rear Admiral Block, chief of ordnance, said the department saw no reason to alter its plans for developing the property at an expense of approximately $600,000. The navy wished to be reasonable and good neighbors, he added, but a great deal of misinformation has been spread about the mine depot. Some persons in the Yorktown and Newport News area have opposed the station, he continued, and others have signed petitions urging the navy to go forward with the project.

LAST ROSENTHAL ASSASSIN KILLED BY FIRING SQUAL

BY JOHN CORNYN.
(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Mexico City, August 22.—General Manuel Reyes, the only survivor of the band which assassinated Jacobo Rosenthal, American millionaire, here, about a year ago, paid for his crime before a firing squad in front of El Carmen church in Toluca, state of Mexico.

General Reyes had for two years committed all kinds of depredations, collected by the state, to whom he was a sort of Robin Hood. Federal forces surprised him in Bravo valley yesterday not far from Toluca. After a hurried court-martial he was condemned to death and shot in the public square in the presence of a large crowd of townspeople.

With General Reyes was executed his private secretary, a young man of 22, who refused to give his name.

DAWES IS NOT CANDIDATE, HE WRITES SOCIETY

Cincinnati, Ohio, August 22.—(AP)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes, in a letter to Douglas T. Atkinson, judge advocate of the Young America union, secret non-sectarian political organization, relating to the possibility that he might run for president, said "I am not a candidate for the nomination."

The Young America union through Mr. Atkinson, recently pledged its support to Mr. Dawes in a letter if he should run for president. His reply said:

"I want you to accept my thanks for your letter and for the kindly words expressed. They are appreciated. I am, however, not a candidate for the nomination."

TALBOTTON MAN, FORMER SENATOR, IS FOUND DEAD

Talbotton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Honorable Roderick Leonard, 83, former state senator and legislator, was found dead in his room here this morning. He was found in a chair beside his bed and was apparently stricken last night as he was retiring.

He was a Confederate veteran, a member of the Methodist church and extensive farmer and land owner. He is survived by one sister and several children. Dr. W. P. Leonard, of Talbotton, Mrs. William C. Wooten, of Buena Vista, and Mrs. W. C. Hightower, of Thomaston.

ARKANSAS TOWN FEEDING FOURTH REFUGEE ARMY

Little Rock, August 22.—(AP)—Eudora, Chicot county, for the fourth time this year, has opened its arms to flood refugees and more than 200 persons are seeking refuge in the town as the Arkansas river continues its encroachment upon their lands. Refugees now are being cared for at Eudora, Dumas and McGeehee and Cotton Plant, and number more than 1,000.

In repeated breaks the Redstone and Medford levees, two rises of the Arkansas in as many weeks and the subsequent inundation of lands in Desha and Chicot counties necessitated establishment of the Eudora, McGeehee and Dumas camps, while flood stages on the White, yawning levees north of Desha and inundation of lands near McClelland and Georgetown led to establishment of the camp at Cotton Plant, a town which has not been entirely refuge free since early February.

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. RHODES SET FOR TODAY

LAND AND PLANE RADIO TELEPHONE ATTEMPT SUCCESS

Washington, August 22.—(United News.)—Radio conversation between a land station and a moving airplane has been conducted successfully up to a distance of 150 miles, the bureau of standards announced.

Cooperating with the post office department, the bureau tested the radio conversation between a station at Bellefonte, Pa., and an air mail plane on the regular Cleveland to New Brunswick, N. J., run.

THREE HULP MEN LOOT BANK IN TEXAS

Austin, Texas, August 22.—(AP)—Three well-dressed young men held up the University bank here today, securing about $6,000, and escaped in a touring car later identified as one licensed to a San Antonio company. The robbers sauntered in, made four patrons of the bank lie flat on the floor face up, and then took the available cash and rode away.
